Republicans Jubilant Over Election Results

Mull Disposition of Robinson Votes;
New Dealers Without Senate Candidate

President Roosevelt came into the state and gave him a figurative pat on the back.

LaFollette recently has criticized some of the Roosevelt policies, however, particularly those dealing with foreign affairs. Last week he told a radio audience that the United States was going, step by step, "down the road of 1916-17."

He will be opposed in November by Francis E. McGovern, former governor who won the Democratic nomination, and Orland S. Loomis, former attorney general, who defeated four rivals for the Progressive nomination.

The administration state of minor state officers was victorious in the Republican primary.

Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland will oppose Anton H. Miller, Progressive, and Morley Kelly, Democrat, while Fred R. Zimmerman, whose vote for the nomination for secretary of state—242,931 in 2,776 precincts—exceeded that of Heil, will be opposed for reelection by Adolph W. Larsen, Progressive, and Julius G. Seyfert, Democrat.

Smith Re-Nominated

State Treasurer John Smith won re-nomination. Frank Zeidler, a Progressive and brother of Milwaukee's mayor, will be one of Smith's opponents. The other will be either John Lawrie or John Ringle, whose race for the Democratic nomination was so close that the result may not be known until the vote is canvassed officially. In 2,821 precincts, Lawrie polled 59,330 votes, Ringle 60,152.

Attorney General John E. Martin, Republican, will have Otto F. Christensen, Progressive, and Gustave J. Keller, Democrats, as opponents.

While election workers wound up their counting task yesterday—reporting a large vote for Dr. Glenn Frank—funeral services were held at the state capital for the former University of Wisconsin president.

In virtually complete returns from the Republican senatorial contest Frank placed third. The 42,715 votes cast for him in 2,826 precincts were regarded as a high tribute.

Frank was killed in an automobile mishap near Greenleaf Sunday night.

Wiley Fights Excess Profits Tax Legislation

Declares Bill Was Created in Haste, Has Bad Features

Washington —(AP)—The pending excess profits tax legislation was criticized on the senate floor by Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) who said it was created in haste and should be passed only in part.

"I think we should refuse to pass the portion of the bill which refers to the so-called excess-profits tax, but should divide the bill and pass the feature which relates to amortization and depreciation," the senator declared.

"Secondly, we should strike from it the additions to the normal tax."

"Thirdly, as the bill does not do the job, it is just another Democratic palliative measure. It pretends to raise $115,000,000 in excess profits. With such a measure passed, the country can be told that an excess-profits tax has been passed. Shame on such chicanery."

"Fourth, its main purpose seems to be to harass business, make more jobs for accountants and tax lawyers."

Basic Principle Ignored

"Fifth, it does not apply the basic principle of all taxation—the ability to pay."

"Sixth, it does not do the job it is supposed to do."

Wiley said he believed in a plan of excess-profits taxation, but one which would "encourage rather than discourage production."

He expressed a belief in regulation and taxation of income as a means of financing defense and war costs, as a necessary curtailment on defense and war profiteering and as a necessary curb on inflation.

"No one has any quarrel with the government's demand for these excess profits," Wiley declared. "Our only problem is to determine the operating level above which profits are excess."

"It appears to me that to tack on another 3.2 per cent corporate normal tax is not a fair nor an equitable way to get at this problem. Why? Because it almost bleeds the patient dry. No man can live without blood in his veins and the industry of America cannot live long when you take the economic life-blood out of its system."

Signs Indicate Hitler May Change Tactics

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York —(AP)—Signs multiply that Hitler, foreseeing the possibility that he may have to postpone his projected invasion of England, is preparing to cast his weight into the battle of the Mediterranean with Mussolini in an effort to crack the British empire from this fresh point of assault.

Mackenzie

Britain's domination of the Mediterranean is, of course, one of the imperial foundation stones.

It ranks next in importance to the security of mother England herself.

Should this new strategic move be made Hitler probably will continue his efforts to reduce the British isles to impotence by bombing.

Moore and Daniels Publish Work Book For Music Students

"The School Band Course" is the title of the new exercise book recently published by E. C. Moore, Appleton High school band director, in cooperation with Cyrus Daniel, professor of theory and composition at Lawrence college.

The workbook is designed to be a comprehensive course of harmonized and unison studies progressively arranged for either class or individual instruction.

Moore, who is associate professor of public school music at the Lawrence conservatory and supervisor of music in the Appleton public schools, is the author of several other work books including the "Moore Band Course," "Warming Up Exercises for Band" and "Moore Classroom Method for Tonette."

Daniel holds a master of music degree from Yale university and is the composer of several compositions for orchestra and string quartets. He is co-author of "Step by Step Band Books No. 1" and "Tonette Tune Books."

British Won't Reveal Times of Air Raids

The restriction applies to the start of alarms and the finish.

Censors said publication of the times of raids was considered prejudicial to security.

Final Respects Paid Glenn Frank

Estimate More Than 5,000 Persons Attend Or View Funeral Rites

Madison —(AP)—State and university officials and hundreds of other citizens paid final respects yesterday to the late Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, and his only son, Glenn, Jr.

Frank and his son, who were killed Sunday night in an automobile accident near Greenleaf, Wis., while enroute to a political meeting at Green Bay, were buried in Forest Hill cemetery after the formal state funeral in the flower-bedecked rotunda of the state capitol.

More than 5,000 national guard officials estimated, attended the ceremonies or viewed the cortege from vantage points outside the building. Among them were many whose votes swelled the impressive total received by the Elder Frank Tuesday in his race for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

The eulogy, which followed prayers and scriptural readings by Dr. J. D. Butler, of the Grace Episcopal church, and the Rev. Emil Frye, of the First Methodist church, was delivered by the Rev. William Mahoney, of St. Raphael's Catholic church.

"I hasten this day to a duty based on a long-standing friendship, inspired by a deep regard for a kindly gentleman, a charming personality, a keen mind and a vivacious person and inspirational character," Dr. Glenn Frank, Father Mahoney said. "I come to the side of the widow and her family, and in the name of citizens of our state and nation to offer them our sympathy and prayers, assuring them that we too sense their loss."

Mrs. Frank, dressed in somber black and heavily veiled, was escorted by her brother, Thomas Smith, St. Louis banker, Mary Jane

Jacs Adopt Dairy Promotion as New State-Wide Project

A report that the promotion of the Wisconsin dairy industry will be made a state-wide Junior Chamber of Commerce project was made at a meeting of the board of directors of the Appleton unit last night.

Harold Stout, Appleton president, and Fred Boughton, state director, attended a state Jace session at Oshkosh Sunday at which it was announced that promotion of dairy-rolling would be a Jace project.

Plans for sponsoring of Fire Prevention week in Appleton, Oct. 6 to 13, were formulated at last night's board meeting.

Expect Britain to Seek More Farm Commodities

Washington —(AP)—Great Britain, because of difficulties in maintaining plant operations and storage supplies under the stress of intensified German air raids, may turn to the United States for increasing amounts of processed farm commodities, the agriculture department said today.

Products affected, the department said, would include lard, meats, canned goods and other processed foods.

Since July American farm exports have been moving to Europe in only about a third of normal volume, due mainly to extension of the British blockade.

Manierre, of Milwaukee, fiancée of the young Dr. Frank, was accompanied by Rev. Mahoney, managing editor of the Madison State Journal.

Says WPA Rolls Show Decrease

Commissioner Claims Total Is 525,000 Less Than Year's High Point

New York —(AP)— Acting WPA commissioner Howard O. Hunter told the United States conference of mayors today that WPA's October employment would total 1,800,000, or 525,000 less than the year's high point in February.

Hunter said he made this "completely factual statement" because "silly and unfounded charges are being bandied about to the effect that the WPA is going to pad its rolls for election purposes."

"This number is in exact accord with the printed testimony as to employment schedules submitted to congress by the commissioner of the WPA," he declared.

He added that the figure was 100,000 less than for October, 1939, and 1,500,000 less than October, 1938.

Mayors of 200 of the nation's largest cities assembled in what Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York said was the most important conference since President Woodrow Wilson called municipal leaders together at the close of the world war.

LaGuardia, conference president for the third successive year, said the keynote of the three day session was national defense and the role to be played in the defense program by municipal governments.

War Situation Today

British Warships in Attack Upon Mussolini's Troops

The British fleet blazed into action in the Mediterranean today, shelling Italian troops marching along the Libyan-Egyptian coast, while on the home front in London the empire capital's bomb strafed millions surveyed the havoc from the fiercest night long assault of the war.

An official estimate placed the city's casualty toll at 90 killed, 350 seriously wounded.

R. A. F. warplanes retaliated with a smashing attack on German "invasion ports," the London air ministry said, leaving the Nazi-occupied French coast in flames for miles.

The raids hit hardest at Le Havre, Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque and Ostende—all scenes of German barge and troops concentrations.

Britain's naval action in the Mediterranean was reported in a communique by the Italian high command, which said the English men o' war attacked fast troops advancing from Bardia, in Italian Libya, toward Sidi Barrani, 60 miles inside Egypt, already occupied by the blackshirt advance guard.

"Our air force bombed them (the British ships), forced them to suspend action and put them to flight," Mussolini's high command asserted.

"A 10,000 ton cruiser was hit by a torpedo dropped by one of four torpedo planes and was seriously damaged."

No figures were given for Italian troop casualties.

With the air siege of England reaching a new peak of destructiveness, correspondents at Dover reported the channel was still far too rough for the passage of an invasion armada, and for the first time the Nazi press in Berlin dropped hints that the war might continue through the winter.

If true, Britain appears to have won the first vital round of the war—the fight to stave off defeat until she can muster her great empire forces for the counter-offensive in 1941 heralded by Prime Minister Churchill.

"Important only is total success," said one Berlin newspaper. "Weather, time and speculation about the approaching winter don't count."

Berlin reported the weather was "ideal" for relentless major air attacks on England and said Nazi raiders during the night had bombed Liverpool, Newcastle and Birmingham as well as London.

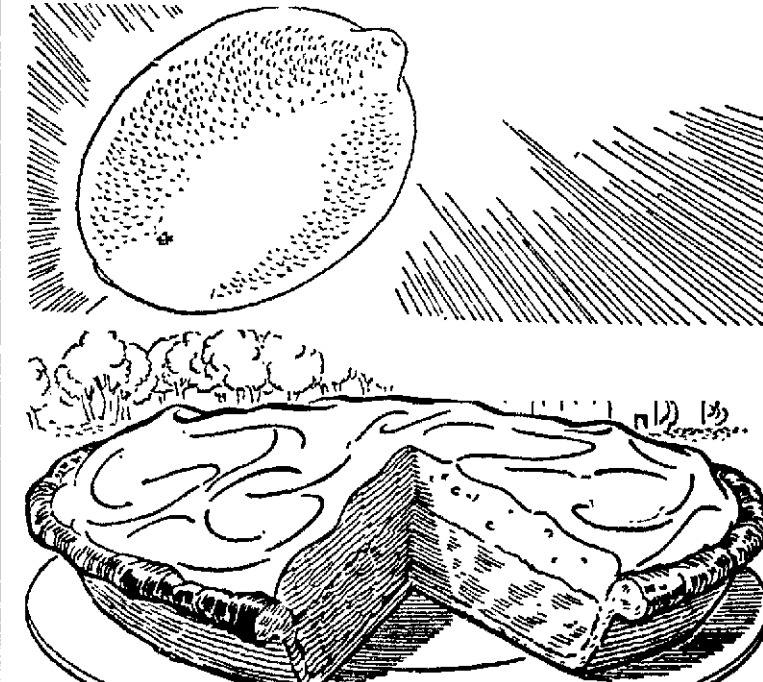

The semi-official German press, raged at new British night raids over Germany—striking at Berlin, Hamburg, Oldenburg and Osnabrück—and asserted that the R. A.

NEW W. SPRING STREET HOME—The Sylvan Massonet home at 1232 W. Spring street is one of the new residential units in Appleton. City May Open Alley In New Business Area

Growing pains in the Wisconsin avenue business district again were brought to the attention of the common council which last night decided to do something about it.

The street and bridge committee was given the nod to investigate the district and report to the council whether the city should open the alley at the rear of business places or permit businessmen to build on the area.

The problem arose last night when the Bestler Bakery asked for a permit to build a frame garage building on a 20-foot area at the rear of its plant now reserved for an alley. The request violates two city rules, building on land which in future would be used as an alley and constructing a non-fireproof building in a business district.

Alderman Thompson told the council to face the problem and either open the alley so it can be used by the growing business district or tell business men to use the land for construction purposes.

Alderman Franke agreed and said the alley is needed to remove growing congestion on Wisconsin avenue. The street and bridge committee will investigate and report to the council.

New Industry

Following in the footsteps of its neighbor, Kaukauna, the council last night displayed an interest in attracting new industry to Appleton. A communication from the Engineering and Research, Inc., Waukesha, asking for a site and financial backing for a new heating industry attracted interest.

A move to refer the letter to the Appleton Chamber of Commerce for checking was killed and the council then referred it to the board of public works which will contact the company.

Aldermen Douglas and Doerfler said the chamber is not interested in attracting new industry to the city and maintained the council could do better by doing its own checking. Alderman Keller reminded the committee to make sure the letter didn't come from some broken down organization that is looking for a bonus.

Improvements

Looking towards next year's improvements, Mayor Goodland told the council to begin mapping the 1941 permanent improvement program so that plans may be prepared and assessments made early.

Lloyd M. Schindler, city engineer submitted a list of streets to come under the soil cement stabilization program and asked the council to authorize laboratory tests for the soil. The matter was referred to the street and bridge committee.

The council also adopted a resolution asking the county board for an appropriation of $20,000 to finish work on the connecting link between County Trunk Z and Highway 10 on the south side. The board from Lawrence street to College avenue.

St. Theresa congregation was given a permit to erect an 8-foot fence around its playgrounds near the school on Wisconsin avenue.

The council awarded contracts to the Emil J. Belling Roofing company and the Badger Furnace company for materials for a roof on the No. 1 digester at the sewage treatment plant. The Belling bid was $170 for roofing and the Badger bid was $105.50 for copper flashing.

Aldermen accepted the plumbing work on the Spencer street grandstand, done by the R. Wenzel company, and the widening project at the corner of Meade street and E. Wisconsin avenue, done by Robert Schultz.

War Center May Shift From England to Mediterranean

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Informed opinion here is beginning to take the slant that Hitler has run into trouble and that a turn, unfavorable to him, is developing. Opinion is shifting to the view that the war will go into a stalemate through the winter.

Terrible as is the damage inflicted upon England by air, it does not appear enough to decide the issue. Threatened shortage of British pilots is about to be relieved. The house of lords was told yesterday that a flow of highly skilled crews and pilots would soon begin to redress the balance in the air. The Germans have not been able to destroy the British air force as they were able to destroy the Polish air force on the ground.

Although some have thought Hitler was waiting for fall fog to screen his attempted invasion, the more authoritative view is that he has been delayed for other reasons, among which might be shortages of lubricating oil and aviation gasoline. Both are difficult to obtain and enormous quantities have been used. Failure to deliver the knockout blow from the air now makes increasingly doubtful that Hitler will attempt invasion this winter, as the channel is becoming increasingly difficult.

Prediction is risky and no one is doing more than offering an informed judgment as to the probabilities. There have been so many wrong guesses about Hitler, and he has so consistently been underestimated, that one hopes the current view is not too much influenced by wishful thinking.

It is characteristic of Hitler that he does not move unless the chances of success are strongly in his favor. He seldom takes risks. His preparation is careful and he does not move until his preponderance seems clearly decisive.

Everything considered, it would not cause much surprise here if Hitler showed up in the near future on a different tack.

It is even possible that Hitler is ready for an armistice, but the British would be in no mood for it, surrendering all of its cattle and other livestock and be picked clean to feed the German conquerors. Spain Suddenly Is Taking On Importance

If the stalemate occurs, Hitler may be expected to cast about for other means of striking at the British empire rather than by direct invasion. We may soon see some major diversion undertaken against some other portion of the empire. In this connection Spain suddenly is taking on importance.

Franco's brother-in-law has gone to Berlin and a closer snuggling into the axis is in prospect. Spain's internal situation is desperate and she appears unable to obtain help except from the axis.

Suggestions that Spain would like another loan from the United States have been heard recently. About a year ago the export-import bank extended to Spain a cotton credit for $13,000,000. But the attitude of the Franco government toward American property in Spain has not been too encouraging and there is no indication that further loans will be forthcoming. At least the Franco government apparently has come to that conclusion and seems to have turned definitely toward Berlin and Rome for help.

This comes as a welcome opportunity for the axis as it gives Hitler his chance to bear down on the British at Gibraltar, which Spain is anxious to recover.

Something may develop there soon to replace the invasion of England as the immediate No. 1 project, thus shifting the attack, at first directed toward the heart of England, to the Mediterranean life-line.

Those are some of the aspects of the situation that give rise to the belief here that a turn is in process.

Expecting with very good cause that Hitler would only use it as a breathing spell and a means of getting the blockade lifted so that Hitler could relieve his difficult food situation. Hitler is being forced to ravage his occupied territories. He is driven toward more drastic measures in unoccupied France, which may shortly find itself obliged to surrender all of its cattle and other

Graff Ballet Dancers Will Appear Here on October 14

Coming here on Monday, October 14, is the Graff ballet with Grace and Kurt Graff, celebrated international dancers. The ballet is being brought here by the Lawrence College theater. Critics agree that it is the best American ballet on the road at the present time.

The program should interest all students, especially since the troupe is made up of both men and women. There are 14 in the well-trained company. The program is beautifully staged and costumed by John Pratt, famous scenic artist and designer.

The Graffs worked in ballet in Germany until it seemed there was little left in the way of developing interpretative genius. Mrs. Graff, formerly Grace Cornell, is an American of pioneer stock whose family was among the first settlers in Chicago, and her husband, is a German of French ancestry.

All members of the Graff ballet have appeared as soloists in their own right. Their stage experiences range from the legitimate theater and musical comedy to the Chicago Opera ballet. They have been chosen from all regions of the country.

This ballet is the continuation of a series of interpretive dances in which the college theater has tried to interest people for a long time.

Keefe Levels Fire At Tentative Plans To Adjourn Congress

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—Tentative plans for adjournment of congress by the end of this month provoke from Congressman Frank B. Keefe, Oshkosh Republican, the warning that "for congress to adjourn in the midst of conditions more important and vital than at any time in the nation's history would be an act of cowardice."

"Certainly it appears reasonable to conclude that to leave the government in sole charge of the executive, in these days of fast-moving and tragic events, would indicate that purely political considerations have submerged and smothered our sense of duty," he stated.

Representatives in congress have "not only the right but the solemn duty to forget their immediate personal and political concerns and devote themselves to the performance of their constitutional functions and not delegate them either to the executive or administrative agencies of the government," Keefe said.

He recalled the fact that President Roosevelt on June 4 expressed the opinion that congress should adjourn and go home. But "since June 4, Keefe pointed out, "far-reaching pieces of legislation" have been considered by congress.

The entire Wisconsin delegation has expressed itself in general agreement with Keefe's belief that there should be a recess but not an adjournment of congress.

Improving Highway 41

The Post-Crescent notes with satisfaction that the state highway commission definitely includes the reconstruction of highway 41 in the Fox River Valley in its program for the immediate future. A report from this newspaper's Madison bureau indicates that state highway authorities recognize the validity of the argument that the highway 41 job ought to be the first one to be included in next year's federal aid projects in Wisconsin under the new policy favoring highway projects related to national defense.

Highway 41, recently reconstructed in the vicinity of Appleton, is the key link between the highly industrialized communities of the industrial Fox River Valley and the lake shore industrial centers. It connects the two biggest and richest sections of Wisconsin, makes of them the industrial heart of the state. Plainly when the improvements are so badly needed the state highway commission can classify them as having priority in a highway defense plan.

Moreover, entirely aside from the military aspects of highway modernization, it appears elementary that state highway authorities emphasize important large projects in the expenditure of federal aid funds instead of putting around the whole state, patching here and there, without appreciable effect anywhere.

If any state highway official doubts the wisdom of certifying Highway 41 for next year's construction program, let him drive from the Outagamie county line to DePere and compare the trip with another over a route comparable in importance, Highway 51 in central Wisconsin, for example.

France and Food

Somehow it is easier to think of any people suffering for lack of food than the French.

The English are atrocious cooks. The Italians use altogether too much oil. The Germans and Dutch are heavy at their tables. But the French are in a class by themselves. To France dining is a ritual and cooking an art. The most important place in France is the kitchen. And we suppose if anyone started one of those One-Minute Lunch centers in France he would get the guillotine.

It isn't that the French are gluttons for they are not. Rather have they discovered that sitting at a table at meal-time may be something other than an obligation in human sustenance.

And now as cables tell of a lack of food and the necessary abandonment of many pretty little dishes one may recall the description of the French naturalist, Fabre, who saved his choicest words and most elegant language to describe the lunch served on one of his exploring expeditions after rare insects. He wrote:

"The cloth is spread on a glittering carpet of alpine plants, with charming among them the thyme-leaved paronychia, whose wide, thin bracts look like silver scales. The food is taken out of the bags, the bottles extracted from their beds of hay. On this side are the joints, the legs of mutton stuffed with garlic, the stacks of leaves; on that, the tasty chicken for our grinders to toy with presently when the edge has been taken off our appetites."

"At no great distance, set in a place of honor, are the Ventoux cheeses specked with winter savory, the luteal pebre d'asse cheeses, flanked by Arles sausages whose pink flesh is mottled with cubes of bacon and whole peppercorns. Over here in this corner are green olives still dripping with brine and black olives soaking in oil; in that other, Cavallion melons, some white, some orange, to suit every taste; and down there, a jar of anchovies which make you drink hard and so keep your strength up. Lastly, the bottles are cooling in the ice-cold water of the trough over there. Have we forgotten anything? Yes, we have not mentioned the crowning side dish, the onions, to be eaten raw with salt. Our two Parisians—for we have two among us, my fellow botanists—are at first a little startled by this very invigorating bill of fare; soon they will be the first to burst into praise. Are we all ready? Then let us sit down."

"And now begins one of those Homeric repasts which mark red-letter days in one's life. The first mouthfuls are almost frenzied. Slices of mutton and chunks of bread follow one another with alarming rapidity. Each of us, without communicating his apprehensions to the others, casts an anxious glance at the victuals and asks himself, 'If this is the way we are going on, shall we have enough for tonight and tomorrow?"

"However, the craving is allayed; we begin by devouring in silence, we now eat and talk. Our apprehensions for the morrow are likewise relieved and we give due credit to the man who ordered the menu, who foresaw this hunger fit. The time has come for us to appreciate the victuals as connoisseurs. One praises the olives, stabbing them one by one with the point of a knife; another lauds the anchovies as he cuts up the little ochre-colored fishes on his bread; a third waxes enthusiastic about the sausage, and all with one accord extol the pebre d'asse cheeses, no larger than the palm of a man's hand. Pipes and cigars are lit, and we stretch ourselves on our backs on the grass with the sun shining down upon us . . ."

Even an incomparable professor of natural philosophy, so long as he was French, must desert consideration of the very purpose of his journey when that matter of superior importance intruded—the ceremony of dining.

And until this world is somehow straightened out so that the French may secure all necessary creams, cheeses, sauces and condiments to make an appetizing meal it cannot be said that happiness has wiped the tears from off her countenance.

Progress in Education

Too often public officials suffer their constructive achievements to go unheralded while their less worthy colleagues boldly summon public attention to their minor deeds.

Thus John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction isn't doing any boasting about the significant progress in his rural school consolidation project, which deserves public commendation and appreciation nevertheless.

After years of seemingly futile effort to convince the legislature that large savings could be effected without interfering with sound educational principles by adapting the Wisconsin rural school system to 20th century conditions, Callahan last year got permission from the legislature to proceed with the rural school district consolidation program which he and many other forward-looking citizens had been advocating.

In several rural counties Callahan has reduced the number of school districts where it was obvious that there was no good reason for many of them. The state was paying the bill. Local residents didn't mind an uneconomic school system which didn't cost them anything, particularly when a good many of them got jobs on the school board for themselves, and in teaching for their daughters.

True, in Adams county there were protests, but the consolidation law provides for appeals to the courts. If Callahan's orders have been unreasonable, the courts will rescind them. But if the state superintendent has proceeded as carefully and judiciously as it appears he has, it is to be hoped that the courts will not interfere, but will rather encourage him to economize further in other rural counties.

Insurance Against Fraud

From New York comes the announcement by the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives in their war against fraudulent claims that during the first six months of this year 91 persons have been sent to prison, 9 lawyers disbarred and 6 others suspended from practice for participating in this sly and close-mouthed form of racketeering.

A large share of these frauds spring from ambulance chasing which itself has invariably meant plain fakes, rehearsed witness and built up stories.

The principal handicap against which these companies struggle is the natural feeling of sympathy toward some person who seems to be in physical distress. It is another of those constant efforts by unprincipled people to turn man's finest emotions and sentiments into the filthy gain of trickery.

The fact, however, that companies insuring against liability have had to create a department just to fight back against the shysters and slickers is impressive of the necessity of inflicting such sizable punishments upon those convicted as to deter them from a return to the sordid field.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

TIME, THE GYPSY

Who stole my baby?
He used to run
Chasing the shadows
With the sun.

He skipped as lightly
As a deer.
He sought adventure
Without fear.

There is a mark
By the garden wall,
Where he was measured
"Standing tall!"

Soon the young sapling
Becomes a tree
Where is the baby
Who cried for me?

There was a gypsy,
Day by day,
Planning to coax him
From his play.

He promised long years
Bright with joy,
Time is the gypsy
Who stole my boy!

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—How difficult it is for the government to build up a merchant marine reserve is illustrated by the inside story of the Maritime Commission's efforts to get two large luxury liners built for transpacific service.

As early as two years ago the Maritime Commission conceived the idea of building two passenger vessels with smoke-stacks on the side, so they could be converted into airplane carriers at a moment's notice. The idea was welcomed by the navy, but the Maritime Commission couldn't get a single American shipping yard to bid on the vessels.

All of them were busy with naval orders, and also they didn't like the fact that the Maritime Commission worked out its own designs. So they turned a cold shoulder.

Meanwhile, the Japanese heard about the Maritime Commission's efforts to get bids, and last month they launched two passenger liners also with smoke-stacks on the side, convertible into airplane carriers. In other words, they were two years ahead of the United States.

And only on September 10—two years after the first effort was made—did the Maritime Commission get a bid from an American shipyard. This came from the Todd Shipbuilding Company of Seattle, and the proposed price is $32,000,000, compared with only $15,000,000 paid for building the liner America.

The convertible airplane carriers would be a little larger than the America, but not enough to double the price. So the Maritime Commission will attempt to negotiate a lower price.

Note—You can write it down as certain that the government will build more navy yards of its own in the not too distant future.

ANTI-IN-LAWS

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., third son of the president, is married to the former Ethel du Pont, but that has had no effect on the politics of his millions in in-laws. They are most emphatically not for the re-election of the president. Young Franklin ascertained this directly from his mother-in-law.

Franklin Jr. is working at Democratic headquarters this fall before entering a New York law firm, and took time out to visit his wife at her parents' summer home in fashionable Bar Harbor, Maine. In his lapel he wore a Roosevelt-Wallace button.

The first few days nothing was said about the button, but finally Mrs. duPont took him aside and objected.

"That is most embarrassing to us, Franklin," she said. "I will have to ask you to take that button off. You can't wear that thing around here."

Telling intimates about the incident, Franklin says that his first impulse was to refuse. "But I thought it over," he explained, "and since I was leaving shortly I decided to take it off to keep peace in the family. It was their home and if it annoyed them, I felt that the courteous thing to do was to remove it."

However, he noticed that in addition to the ban on Roosevelt campaign symbols there also seemed to be no signs of Willie buttons or banners. When he asked his mother-in-law about this, she replied:

"It's not because we don't want them, but we got orders from New York that the rich were not to display Willie symbols in order not to antagonize the common people."

Note—Franklin Jr. is now touring the country making speeches to young voters.

ARGENTINE BEEF

A group of diplomats were lunching at one of Washington's fashionable hotels. One of the group was an Argentine, who ordered a beef dish. Another said jokingly to the waiter, "Be sure to serve him Argentine beef. Can you do that?"

The waiter's reply shows how completely the public is aware of the politics involved in Argentine beef. "I'm afraid not," he said; "not until after the elections!"

LABOR PEACE-MAKER

It is the boast of Defense Commissioner Sidney Hillman that labor has cooperated 100 per cent in the defense program; that there have been no strikes or jurisdictional fights between rival unions.

Inside light on how this record has been chalked up was the threatened AFL-CIO clash at Tacoma, Wash., last week and how Hillman cut it short.

The row arose out of a two-year-old decision of the National Labor Relations Board favoring the CIO longshoremen's union. On Friday, September 6, the AFL longshoremen's union staged a walk-out after their CIO rivals, and it seemed as if the Northwest was in for another siege of the costly jurisdictional labor war that has so plagued it.

When Hillman got word of this on Saturday morning, he immediately inquired if national defense production would be affected. He was told it would not, also that peace moves were under way. Tuesday he checked again, this time satisfied himself that defense was involved. He waited another day for an agreement to be reached, then swung aggressively into action on Thursday.

Telephoning union officials in Tacoma, he warned: "That strike must be called off at once. It's not in the interest of national defense. Go back to work and we'll settle this by arbitration."

Next he called the NLRB, tersely asked for a reopening of the old controversy. Then he telephoned Joe Ryan, head of the AFL union.

"Joe," he said, "That jurisdiction fight in Tacoma can't go any further. I know you and your union are patriotic and don't want to do anything to injure national defense. I am satisfied that if this strike continues it will hurt national defense and it will hurt labor. The NLRB has agreed to reopen the case and I want you to tell your boys to go back to work."

"How do I know our rights will be protected?" demanded Ryan. "After all, you are CIO."

"Listen, Joe," retorted Hillman, "I'm not CIO or AFL now. I'm working for Uncle Sam on national defense. Your rights will be protected just as much as the CIO's."

"That's okay with me," replied Ryan. "I'll call Tacoma at once."

The next day the AFL longshoremen voted to return to work.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

George T. Sumnerlin, who gets $9,400 a year as chief of the State Department Division of Protocol, saves $91 a year by rolling his own cigarettes. His job includes entertaining visiting dignitaries. . . . Huffy Representative Frank Fries of Illinois, one-time miner, is leading the battle to save the federal mine inspection bill from being shelved in the House Mines Committee. Sponsored by Senator Matt Neely of West Virginia and Representative Kent Keller of Illinois, the measure is being stymied by an undercover filibuster. . . . "Blitzkrieg widows" is the state department phrase for wives of men joining their husbands at foreign posts, eign service officers who are prevented by war . . . Like General Marshall, Chief of Staff, the Army's Chief of Air Corps, General H. H. Arnold, begins his working day at 7:45 in the morning.

A Bystander In Washington

Editor's Note—While Jack Stinson, who wrote the "Bystander in Washington," is on vacation, the space usually devoted to his column has been made available to the readers for political parties for a pro-and-con presentation of an agreed list of political subjects.

This is the Democratic view of "The New Deal." The Republican view was presented yesterday.

BY HAROLD L. ICKES

Secretary Of The Interior

Washington — It was a French moralist — the Duc de la Rochefoucauld, I believe—who once remarked cynically that when a man says he hates women he means a particular woman.

I recall this saying in connection with the current third term hullabaloo. When you hear a 101 per cent patriot piously declaim against a third term "on principle," you may be sure that he is against a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt in particular. Many vocal super-patriots thought it a fine thing for Calvin Coolidge to have a third term, but profess to be horrified—"on principle," of course — at the thought of Franklin D. Roosevelt serving another term in the White House.

In May, 1927, a nation-wide poll of 200 leading Republican newspapers, taken by the Los Angeles Examiner, showed most of them favoring a third term for Calvin Coolidge. At the same time the Washington Star polled the members of the Republican National Committee on the same question. Two-thirds of them expressed themselves "overwhelmingly in favor of the renomination and re-election of President Coolidge."

In those days Republicans were, indeed, ardent third termers—for Calvin Coolidge. Some Republicans to be sure, were not satisfied with a third term for Calvin Coolidge. They wanted much more. For example, in Sudbury, Mass., the Republican town committee voted 6 to 1 in favor of a life-long presidency for Coolidge, at double salary.

One could cite numerous Republican individuals as having been enthusiastic third termers. The late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, William Howard Taft, for instance, said that "it would be very satisfactory" if Coolidge were to run for a third term. Mark Sullivan, who has paroxysms of super-patriotic indignation every time he thinks of Franklin D. Roosevelt staying in the White House 60 seconds longer than two terms, was to be an eager third termer. He was all for a third term for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and for Calvin Coolidge later.

In 1925 Mark Sullivan dismissed the "third term bogey" as unimportant. Finally, no less a patriotic citizen than ex-President Herbert Hoover must be set down as a third termer. In 1927 he favored a third term for Calvin Coolidge. "I still believe as I stated in Chicago two weeks ago," Mr. Hoover said on August 3, 1927, "that President Coolidge should be renominated and re-elected."

The enemies of President Roosevelt are doing their best to confuse and bewilder the people with talk of "dictatorship." They are trying to create the impression that, if he should have another four years in the White House, he suddenly, overnight as it were, would become a Hitler. This is plain and vicious nonsense, as those who are using the argument well know. A President of the United States, no matter how frequently elected, is limited in his powers by well-defined laws, checked by the courts and by an independent (and frequently unsympathetic) Congress—his every move and gesture watched over and reported by a free (and often hostile) press.

But is not a third term a violation of tradition? My answer is that while traditions are important in peaceful and easy times, they can become a millstone around democracy's neck in a period of crisis. Every honest American, from George Washington down, has recognized this. Democracy must be flexible, not muscle-bound, if it is to survive. Thomas Jefferson, by the way, was willing to serve a third term if there was danger of a monarchist (the Fascist of his day) being elected.

In conclusion, I should like to put myself on record as agreeing with Mr. Wendell Willkie when he said, a short time ago, "Nor do I hold that a country can afford to cling to a tradition for purely sentimental reasons."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Sept. 18, 1930

The completion Thursday of the year's primary elections drew expressions of distinct pleasure at the results from wet leaders while the generals of the prohibition forces refrained from direct comment but took the occasion to pledge themselves to resist every effort towards repeal of the dry laws.

More than 275 new freshmen completed registration at Lawrence college. Holdover freshmen were expected to bring the class total to well over 300.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Sept. 23, 1915

Anglo-German airmen had bombarded the German submarine and military base at Bruges. Heavy damage and the destruction of a German factory was reported that day.

Auto drivers and motorcycleists had been complaining about the condition of John street hill which had a number of large loose stones in the driveway. They were placed there by teamsters who used them to keep their loads from sliding back while resting their horses, the stones being left there after the team went on. A number of bad spills and near car accidents had been reported.

What They Should be Debating

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Your neighbor and the neighbor of almost everyone else who voted in the Tuesday primary election today is offering his interpretation of the respective political positions made. One of the most frequent subjects of comment is the tremendous — in view of all circumstances — vote collected by James K. Robinson against Governor Julius P. Heil in the Republican column.

Because Robinson made no campaign in the common meaning of the word, because his standing in the Republican party before Tuesday was roughly similar to that of a precinct committeeman in an upstate party, because Heil is the head of a going political organization, the vote must be counted as an extremely significant fact.

There will be all kinds of explanations and interpretations offered, but its significance is made more noticeable when it is put alongside other revelations in the Tuesday voting.

For example, it is worth noticing that the two Republican senate candidates who were most closely connected with the Heil administration, who were personally identified in their campaigns with Governor Heil, made remarkably poor showings in electoral districting. A man making his first bid for position in the Republican party, Fred Clausen, walked off with an overwhelming margin over William C. Maas, formerly Heil's private secretary, and Reuben W. Peterson, Heil's floorleader in the 1939 assembly and Heil-appointed chairman of the public service commission.

Further, associates of the latter defeated candidates are known to have expressed the fear before the election that anti-Heil feeling among Wisconsin Republicans would work to their disadvantage at the primary election.

SAMPLES

It may be said that many of the anti-Heil votes in the Republican primary were cast by Progressives, but that does not explain away the fact that in some of the traditionally Republican localities of the state, Rock county for example, an ominously large total of votes was cast against Heil in the Republican column.

Of course, Republicans who watched the party's candidates roll up total votes far greater than that collected by the Progressives are not worried particularly about the November election. But in their minds the primary test shows pretty eloquently that the governor cannot rest on his oars during the succeeding weeks, that his popularity as Wisconsin's party leader has been seriously questioned.

REASON?

One of the reasons, according to Capitol Republicans, for Heil's loss in popularity as shown in the primary is his old tax difficulties. Heil had been attacked vigorously by the Progressive candidates, especially in the rural sections where the oleo question becomes a first rate issue, for originally opposing the tax, and then straddling when his opposition inspired criticism.

In that connection it is significant to note that the Progressive party is planning to proceed immediately with a renewed anti-Heil campaign based principally on the oleo tax issue.

A tactical party needs a strong state political order to assure legislative majority, because so many of the legislative districts are doubtful as the result of tri-party

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CAN'T PLEASE EVERYBODY

E. E. B. writes:
I think your counsel on rabies is well taken and reasonably developed, with one exception. Quoting in part—

"I fear the possible ill effects of Pasteur treatment . . . I myself would not take it under any circumstances." But—
"If your physician advises Pasteur treatment, by all means accept his advice."

This is equivalent to saying that after consulting a physician one should never under any circumstances use his own judgment, even if he becomes convinced that the physician is a brainless and prejudiced sap.

Possibly you do not share my conviction that there are degrees between the status physician and the status dog, nor admit that some who never attended medical school have the rudiments of a brain.

Brain or no brain, I said that was my belief and advice. I, personally, would not take so-called Pasteur anti-rabies treatment in any circumstance. I am afraid of possible ill effects from such virus and I doubt that it has any remedial value.

At the same time I believe and advise that if you have a physician at all you should follow his advice regardless of what you, with your superior intelligence, may think about it—or else fire the doctor and take charge of the case yourself.

If I were bitten or scratched or clawed or otherwise wounded by animal or bird, whether or not there were any suspicion of rabies, I'd want the wound immediately treated by a physician as any infected wound is treated. I'd want an immediate injection of anti-tetanus serum, and perhaps the second dose of the anti-tetanus serum (against lockjaw) a week later. That is all the treatment I'd want, no matter whether the animal or bird that bit me was wild or rabid or just annoyed or playful.

I'd have no medieval attempts at cauterizing my wound with "fuming nitric acid." If the doctor considered the wound required it, of course he would immediately excise the badly infected or damaged tissue. But no crude cauterizing for mine, thank you, no matter what politician thinks "fuming nitric acid" is the only agent which will "destroy rabies virus."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Meniere's Syndrome

What is Meniere's disease. Can it be cured? How? (Mrs. C. M. R.)

Answer—Spells of vertigo (dizziness) perhaps accompanied with nausea and vomiting, pallor, cold sweat, headache, sometimes involuntary oscillation of eyeballs, sometimes diarrhea. Cause, at least in some cases, is bleeding into internal ear, semicircular canals. Best remedy I can suggest is six grains quinine sulfate twice daily for fifteen days, then rest off a week, then another course of quinine if necessary. This was the remedy of the great Prof. Charcot, famous French neurologist.

Who Pays the Freight?

Please send your pamphlet on Arthritis. I am especially interested in the massive dose vitamin D treatment.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

I see they are going to have hostesses at Uncle Sam's new draft camps. This has just been announced and is expected to popularize the draft a little. If they put in girl drum majors the whole problem of conscription is solved.

These hostesses will be good-looking and will arrange social programs, chaperone lady visitors and sort of give to camp life some of the features of a summer hotel, a musical review and life before Hitler.

Beauty, charm, grace and the feminine touch will do a lot to soften the blow of daily bugle calls. It may even help the army cooking.

There will be movie shows, libraries and camp theatricals at all the draft camps, which is as it should be. The boys will have everything except the use of pop-corn. And in case of war they should be allowed to have that. It would do as much as anything to terrorize any enemy.

Those primaries furnished a few surprises around the country and are providing lots of work for the students of trends. But comparatively few people bothered to vote.

Are Americans becoming lax in the matter of going to the polls and leaving it all to hissing and applauding on the news reel theaters?

Too many people seem to be operating under the slogan "As goes the newswear hissing, so goes the nation."

ously damaged a 10,000-ton cruiser with an aerial torpedo when the warships closed in to shell Italy's new positions and communication lines between Bardia and newly-seized Sidi Barrani, Egypt, the communiqué.

Meanwhile German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop arrived in an armored train today for vital conferences with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano on the future policies of the axis.

Count Ciano and other high Italian officials greeted the German foreign minister, whose visit was expected to involve axis hopes to defeat the British from London to Cairo before winter.

Fleet in Action

Calro, Egypt —(AP)— The British Mediterranean fleet has moved into action against the Italian forces driving along the coast into Egypt with a bombardment of the Italian's newly won positions at Sidi Barrani, 60 miles inside Egypt, it was announced officially today.

New entrenchments at Sidi Barrani and heavy artillery moving along the coast by trucks were the chief targets, said Egypt's premier Hassan Sabry Pasha.

Egypt still is non belligerent, despite the Italian invasion of her territory.

British land forces continued to harass the steady advance into Egypt, but refrained from major action, apparently preferring to choose their own time and place for a stand.

The transport of supplies, especially water, over a narrow strip of desert flanked on one side by the sea and on the other by a great escarpment, or plateau, of treacherous shifting sand, remains a serious Italian problem, rendered more difficult by British harassing operations.

The British said Italian incursions were not such as to place Egypt in jeopardy, and added that no additional Italian troops had crossed the Libyan-Egyptian frontier in 36 hours.

purchase of between 20,000 and 30,000 acres to enlarge the present 33,000 acre area of Ft. Knox, Ky., headquarters for the newly organized first armored corps.

Approximately 3,600 reserve corps lieutenants now on active duty will be promoted temporarily. About 14,000 out of about 120,000 reserve officers are on active duty.

The war department has ordered a group of 48 regular and reserve officers and one civilian to take instruction in classifying soldiers in a course to open Monday at the army war college. The intention, the department said, is to make sure that every new soldier is "given the duties for which he is best qualified by previous experience."

No Officers' Camps
Stimson said in response to questions that the department had no intention of setting up officers' training camps in connection with the draft since there was a reservoir of 120,000 reserve officers already available.

The acquisition of island bases from Great Britain represented, he said, a virtual extension of the American first line of defense, providing bases of operation for the army air corps as well as for the navy.

Acquisition of the bases was described by the war secretary as among the most important defense steps taken, ranking in his estimate along with enactment of selective service and the intensive training of regulars and national guardsmen.

Units of the fourth increment to be called Nov. 25, states from which they come, and post to which they will be assigned as announced tentatively included: 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri, to Little Rock, Ark.; 106th Cavalry (horse-mechanized), Illinois, to Camp Beauregard, La.; 126th Field artillery, Missouri, to Camp Jackson, S. C.; 192nd Tank battalion, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, and Kentucky to Ft. Knox, Ky.

Kaukauna's Slot Machine 'Cut' Gives Aldermen the Jitters

"That's all I know," Nagel ended, warning the reporters to keep the entire business quiet. Mertes arose and said he was approached by someone who said they had some money to turn over to the relief department.

Alderman George Luebke then spoke.

"Mayor, tell the council about it. They all know anyway."

"I don't know any more about it than you do," the mayor responded. What, queried Alderman George E. Proper, did the police do about the slot machines?

"When I was informed there were slot machines in town I immediately ordered the tavern owners to take them out," James E. McFadden, chief of police, stated. He was informed, the chief said, Tuesday morning, Sept. 3. "This is the first I've heard of anyone betting any money," McFadden added.

But never again will the one-armed bandits come to town. For the council supported a motion of Alderman Steidl's that "if slot machines show up the state law be enforced." But the city clerk still has the $176.

London Faces New Air Raids

ty hall, just across Westminster bridge from the houses of parliament, the courtyard of the British museum, the Wallace art collection courtyard, the inner temple (law courts) library and the public records office.

The government said at least 90 persons were killed and 350 injured last night in London. This compared with 306 killed and 1,937 injured the night of Sept. 7, the highest casualty list of any single night.

The Germans used a new type of explosive fire bomb as well as the usual explosives and incendiaries, causing buildings to sway with the power of their blasts and great ruddy fires to light the sky.

Many persons were feared to be still entombed under the debris of several buildings which collapsed when a raider crashed on them with a full load of bombs.

Associated Press reporters who went through last night's raid at its height said it was much heavier than any previous in London.

But the British were not idle. The air ministry announced that Royal Air Force fliers delivered a terrific assault on German concentrations in "invasion ports" on French and Belgian coasts, including a "big attack" on the big French port of Le Havre and raids on Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque and Ostende.

As for the invasion threat Dover correspondents sent word that the English channel still was too rough for small boats which Adolf Hitler would need to transport any troops.

Parties Show Variety as Sororities Entertain for Lawrence Freshman Girls

Night club parties and ranch parties, fashion shows and mock political rallies entertained Lawrence college freshman girls Wednesday as the six social sororities on the campus went into their fourth day of rushing. Pi Beta Phi sorority had an art colony party at the Memorial Presbyterian church parlors, giving its rushes artists' smocks to wear as they came in and asking them to compete in a drawing contest. Surrealistic paintings hung in "the gallery," and tiny carved figures and palettes were given as favors. Today the sorority is entertaining at a "Pi Phi Premiere" in the little theater at Lawrence chapel.

The little theater was the scene of the Delta Gamma party yesterday, which featured a comical style show. The models were Miss Barbara Boyce, Wauwatosa, as Sandra Smooth; Miss Betty Hart, Birmingham, Mich., as Joe Collette; and Miss Alice Kemp, Oak Park, Ill., as a drudge. In exit form they presented a parody of college fashion shows. Miss Dorothy Briggs gave a reading. Punch was served later, Mrs. Arthur Mull pouring. Two alumnae, Miss Geraldine Schmidt and Miss Ellen Driscoll, assisted with the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. William Blank, Forest Junction, were surprised Sunday on the occasion of their wedding anniversary. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Munding, Mr. and Mrs. George Vette, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Maganz, Lucille and Raymond Munding, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendt and son, Forest, Mr. and Mrs. William Henschel, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henschel, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Taves and son, Myron.

Thirteen tables were in play at the card party given by Christian Mothers society of St. Theresa church Wednesday afternoon at the parish hall. Mrs. William Fries and Mrs. Harry Bunks won the bridge prizes. Mrs. Louis Weber and Mrs.

George Vogel the schafskopf awards and Mrs. Margaret Kronschnabel the special award.

Mrs. H. Litowich won the special prize at the card party sponsored by Montefiore Ladies Aid society last night at the social center. Fifteen tables were in play. The society will have a 1 o'clock luncheon next Wednesday at the social center.

Miss Lucille Heins, 813 E. Pacific street, was hostess at a dinner last night in honor of Miss Bernice Stark who is taking a vacation from her duties in the office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C. Other guests were Miss Mary Waterman, Mrs. Willmer Wink, Mrs. Victor Schmidt and Mrs. R. N. Johnson. Miss Stark will leave Friday for Washington.

In night club style, Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained yesterday at the student union. The floor show included an old-fashioned style show, dancing by William Hirst, Jr., Wauwatosa, and singing by Miss Carolyn Wells, DePere.

Alpha Chi Omega sorority was hostess at a ranch party at the little gymnasium, playing such cowboy games as shooting Indians, jassing a rocking horse and pitching pennies and horse shoes. A traveling relay race added to the afternoon fun, and the party closed with songs and refreshments around an imitation campfire. Four-year-old Tommy O'Brien, dressed as a "lone ranger," sang "Pony boy."

A political party at Russell Sage hall entertained rushes of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Campaign speeches were given jokingly deriding the other sororities and praising, of course, Alpha Delta Pi. Kappa Delta sorority had its rushing party Wednesday at the Thomas N. Barrows' home.

Faith in Human Nature Source Of Democracy

Dr. Richard Raines Is Speaker at Lawrence Students Start Term

Democracy depends upon a high faith in human nature "as being spiritual in origin and of almost infinite improvement and growth," Dr. Richard C. Raines, Methodist pastor of Minneapolis, said in a talk before the Lawrence college student body, faculty and townspeople in a Matriculation day convocation opening the 94th academic year at the school yesterday morning.

The faculty procession preceded the convocation at Memorial chapel yesterday, after students had attended their first morning classes.

"To work, to play, to love, to worship—this is why you and I are alive," Dr. Raines said. He declared that our generation is most in need of a firm grounding in spiritual reality and a high moral code.

"And that which is of critical importance to our generation to remember is that both of these necessary pillars of democracy have been present only where men have worshipped regularly and devoutly. It was no accident, I take it, that our Puritan forefathers, landing on a section of the New England coast where they had no grant from the king, and therefore no authority, and fearing mutiny among members of the crew and passengers, they knelt in humble and reverent prayer. No other group of men having come to this country for any other purpose, or with any other background of habit and ideal, would or could have met their problem in the way they did."

Work, Play Essential
The lack of work, Dr. Raines said, "causes men to be dissatisfied, disgruntled, and frustrated." Play is essential, because if life is made up of only work, "it grows meager and narrow, barren and impossible." Love will cause man "to climb above the selfish urge to control and enjoy the person of another individual, climb up above fear and jealousy, laziness and dishonesty." Dr. Raines said that man needs worship "to be aware that the laws of God must be obeyed and to observe them willingly."

"Perhaps most important of all is the necessity for our generation to realize the intimate connection between worship and the perpetuity of democracy," said Dr. Raines. "Democracy is in serious jeopardy, both menaced from without by violence and alien ideologies, and from within by social unrest and disintegration of character."

"What is democracy? For a generation or two we Americans have been acting as if democracy were a natural resource, peculiar to the American soil, and like an unfailing spring bubbling forth from the ground. Our only need therefore, was to dip our tin cup full of the fruits and benefits of democracy without any responsibility or payment in return. But it is being brought forcibly home to us that democracy is no such cheap quest, that it is indeed a conquest, must be won by each generation." Dr. Thomas Kepler delivered the invocation, and the Lawrence college choir, directed by Dean Carl J. Waterman, sang the "Agnus Dei" by Kalinnikoff and "Judge Me, O God" by Mendelssohn.

State Primary, as Usual, Fails to Run True to Form

By JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The record of Tuesday's primary election results is studied with illuminating and obscure evidence which will keep the politicians talking avidly through the fall and well into the winter. Because of the traditional complexities of Wisconsin political affairs, together with spectacular last-minute developments which altered the nature of the election materially, perhaps there were more bad guesses by both politicians and the laity Tuesday than in any recent Wisconsin election.

As the near-final returns were scanned today, however, these appraisals demanded attention from those who try to project the November canvass on the basis of the electorate's showing in the primary balloting.

Anti-Heil Sentiment
1. The convincing demonstration of anti-Heil sentiment within the majority Republican party, as exhibited dramatically in the fact that roughly one out of three Republican voters preferred a man who had made no campaign, James K. Robinson, to the incumbent governor.

2. The fact that the total Republican vote decisively outnumbered the total Progressive tally, despite the fact that the Progressive primary contest for governor was almost as feverish as the Republican senatorial contest, which helped the G.O.P. to roll up its optimistic majority.

3. The relatively unexpected showing of the Democrats, who got a healthy primary total, and the subject failure of the New Dealers to obtain the nomination of United States Ambassador John Cudahy on 48 hours notice through a write-in campaign.

4. The comeback of former Governor Francis E. McGovern, once a Progressive, who got the Democratic nomination without difficulty, and the fact that unless a coalition between Progressives and New Dealers is arranged for the state ticket, the opposing candidacies of McGovern and Loomis augurs well for the Heil ticket in November.

LaFollette Profits
5. The fact that Senator Robert M. LaFollette, despite the publicly avowed disapproval of Wisconsin New Dealers, can expect some Democratic votes in November because of the New Dealers' failure to nominate their man through a write-in campaign.

6. The surprisingly overwhelming victory of Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland, who scarcely left his Racine county farm during the campaign, made few speeches, and spent no money, over Alvin E. O'Konsky, young Republican spinster who had covered every county, made countless speeches, and was generally reckoned to give Goodland a close contest.

The Robinson vote, unprecedented under the circumstances, will be described as a "protest" vote. Progressives professed to be gratified by it, despite their disappointment at their relatively low totals, and Republicans frankly admitted that Governor Heil has seemingly dropped in popularity in the party which he heads. However, spokesmen of both parties in the capital conceded the probability that many of the Robinson votes may have come from Progressives who voted in the Republican primary for various reasons, the most important of which may have been the fact that Progressive county tickets were relatively weak—in some sections absent entirely—while the Republicans had more candidates for local office than they have had in many years.

The complete failure of the "draft" Cudahy movement also complicates senatorial politics in the state. The Cudahy draft was started, according to its sponsors, because of resentment toward Senator LaFollette's recent opposition to Roosevelt defense and foreign policies, and the unwillingness of Wisconsin New Dealers to support a conservative Democratic nominee. In the latter classification was included James Finnegan, who won out in Tuesday's balloting.

Thus, by their previous statements, the New Deal organization in Wisconsin is committed against Finnegan, who won without any help from any recognized Democratic party official in the state. The situation leaves the New Deal Democrats without a senate candidate to vote for, unless they change their mind about LaFollette and support him in spite of his opposition to certain recent New Deal policies.

Before Johnson recently won re-nomination on Republican, Democratic and Progressive tickets, President Roosevelt told reporters that the senator no longer could be considered a liberal.

The Republican nominee began campaigning in California yesterday afternoon following a plane flight from Albuquerque, N. M., with a stop for a speech at Phoenix, Ariz. It was the longest day of speechmaking he has put in so far—nine train platform talks besides the Phoenix and San Diego addresses.

Washington—Senator Hiram Johnson, California Republican, said today he would wait until he was back in his home state before commenting on tributes paid to him there by Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate.

"I'm not going to say anything until I get back there and all Congress is over," the California senator said. He predicted Congress would complete its work by Sept. 28.

Sector Instructor Is Guest at Meeting of Association Chapter

Lieutenant Colonel Graham, Green Bay, recently appointed sector instructor, was a speaker at a meeting of the Appleton chapter of the Reserve Officers association last night in Hotel Appleton.

Lieutenant Colonel A. M. Mixson, national guard instructor, gave what was probably his "farewell address." The colonel expects to be called up soon for active duty. The chapter presented Colonel Mixson with a pair of shoulder straps for a lieutenant colonel.

Lieutenant Gordon McIntyre talked on the return of reserve officers to their jobs after active service and Major A. O. Kuehnstedt on home guard activities in other states.

There was also a discussion as to the privileges of reserve officers who are assigned to a year's active duty and then seek to return to their jobs. Major Helm Hussner was named chairman of the committee, with Lieutenant Theodore Knapstein, Major A. O. Kuehnstedt, and Lieutenant Clifford Christopherson as his assistants.

Council to Study 8-Ward Petitions At Informal Parley
A petition, carrying 1988 signatures and proposing an 8-ward system in the city instead of the present 18-ward plan last night was submitted to the city council which referred it out for informal discussion.

Edward E. Sager, city clerk, yesterday certified that the number of signatures is sufficient and the council now has 40 days to either adopt the plan or to refer it to voters in a referendum.

Under the plan, the city would be re-divided into eight wards with one alderman and one supervisor for each instead of 18 now serving on the council and the county board. It would cut the city's representation on the board from 18 to 8 men.

Solicitors for the petitions were W. C. Denstedt, J. A. Lonsdorf, Wilmer Saiberlich, H. J. Leimer, C. A. Kaufmann and H. S. Furringer.

County Seeking Bids on Garage, Council Is Told

Works Board Reports On Progress of Building Project at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—The county highway commission has approved a site east of the quarry for a garage and is now advertising for bids to build it, the board of public works reported to the council last night. The council recently authorized the board to complete arrangements for donating the site. A 50-year lease probably will be arranged.

Aldermen Oscar Alger reported he and Thomas Reardon, superintendent of public works, had inspected Menasha's garbage disposal system with a view to starting collections in Kaukauna with the new pickup truck which arrived last week. A trial run through the business district may be made Saturday, Alger said.

Need WPA Labor
Alger stated the board hoped to complete as much of the island street paving job this fall as possible, but that it was necessary to secure some WPA labor to help the city relief workers. A group will go to Green Bay Saturday morning to confer with the WPA office there.

The board is considering a request from City Employees union, local No. 130, for a raise in wage scales, hiking the wages of park employees $15 per month, bridge tenders $10 a month, truck drivers $10 a month and hourly employees five cents an hour. In a letter to the council the union asked that any workers conscripted be guaranteed reemployment on their return.

The council recently passed a motion made by Alderman Jule Mertes providing for this.

A letter from Gustave J. Keller, attorney for Anton Servaes, who has been denied a tavern license by the council, said that on two occasions since refusing Servaes a license the council has given licenses to others, and demanded that Servaes be granted a license that night or legal steps would be taken.

Tax Refund Asked
The Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company wrote that it had been assessed for $3620 for water power, listed as an appurtenance to company property in the city. This waterpower is not appurtenant to the land and was argued and a refund of the tax with 6 per cent interest was asked.

A motion was made to refer the matter to the finance committee and the city attorney, H. F. McAndrews, the city attorney, asked that it not be referred to him.

"The crows are now coming home to roost," he stated. McAndrews disapproved of the contract executed over a year ago in which the city traded its Patten Paper company water right, 32 per cent of the flow for 100 per cent of the flow which left the Badger plant, in order to build its new power plant.

Gus Schuh, Black street served a summons on the city claiming sewage backup had damaged his property. It was referred to the city attorney.

Nathan Johnson, 1003 N. Division street, Appleton, was granted a junk dealer's license. Milton Carter, 3154 Main avenue, received a bartender's license.

The chief of police was given authority to buy 12 arterial signs. If the fire and police commission so recommended. Reports of the relief director, electrical department and chief of police were received and filed.

Safety Play Was Needed To Make Bid

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The declarer in today's deal made the oldest and most hackneyed of all complaints. "He could never find a card right," could never make a finesse. His partner, however, was not the sympathetic type. "There's another 'never' you can put in," he said dryly. "You never make a safety play." This was the deal:

♦ A 8 7
The bidding:
South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding was eminently correct and the contract equally so.

West opened the club queen. Realizing that there was not one chance in a million that the lead was from a holding of A-Q, and realizing further that to cover with dummy's king might invite a diamond shift from East, declarer played properly by playing low from dummy, conceding the trick to West. The latter continued with the club jack, and now, with nothing to lose, declarer put up dummy's king and when it was covered with the ace, ruffed with the spade five. The A-K of spades accounted for the adverse trumps and declarer then led a low heart to the ace and, on a return heart lead, finessed against the queen. He looked a bit unhappy when his heart jack was gobbled up by West's queen, but this was not completely fatal. If the heart suit broke 3-3, he still would be able to discard one of dummy's diamonds on his own fourth heart. If quickly developed, however, that this heart break was not to materialize. The heart king drew nothing but a discard from West, and East, of course, now had the high heart. There was no way to avoid the loss of two diamond tricks and, with them, the contract.

As mentioned above, declarer did considerable weeping about his atrocious luck, but as his partner so pointedly said, "luck" had not been the only factor in this defeat. Ten tricks should have been made, and would have been if declarer had been familiar with a certain simple safety play. The crucial point in this deal was not merely to run the heart suit without loss; the establishment of a heart winner on which to discard one of dummy's diamonds would be equally satisfactory.

The proper method of playing a suit such as declarer's hearts in this deal is to lay down the king, then lead low to the ace. If the adverse hearts are divided as shown in the diagram, the queen is captured, and the jack promoted to winning rank. But let us suppose that the heart queen was in East's hand, either twice or three guarded. Declarer would lose no material trick by playing as advised. The heart king would drop a low heart from each defender, as would the heart four to the ace. Now East would be left with either the singleton or doubleton queen. On a lead of the third heart from dummy, he could win his queen, but declarer would be left with the good heart, the jack, on which to discard a diamond from dummy. This safety play guards against the possibility that a doubleton queen in the West hand will slaughter South's jack and still leave East with heart protection.

My Neighbor Says—

Chairs and sofas upholstered in leather will last and retain their appearance much longer if you apply regularly a mixture of one part vinegar and two parts boiled linseed oil, well shaken together. It not only cleans the leather, but softens it and at the same time prevents its cracking. Apply a little on a soft rag and polish with a silk duster or piece of chamous.

If you wish to have a few flowering window plants, take up and pot a few annuals such as petunias and calceolarias.

How long a turkey should be roasted depends on the size of the turkey and temperature of stuffing. For a medium-sized turkey of from 10 to 16 pounds roasting 18 to 20 minutes per pound is the time for roasting in a moderate, 30-degree Fahrenheit oven.

Beauty and You

FRECKLES NO HANDICAP—Freckles are no handicap to Myrna Loy! Her beautiful auburn hair more than compensates for her speckled complexion. She keeps it exquisitely highlighted.

How to bleach freckles is the common problem of auburn haired lassies and other girls who have exceedingly fair skin.

Unfortunately there is no sure way of banishing freckles. Chemical preparations for eradicating freckles are not only unreliable but some of them are injurious and should never be used. The safest treatment is pure lemon juice which should be removed from the skin with a little milk after five minutes. The milk relieves any irritation. Bismark may be used for the same purpose.

Another home remedy bleach is a lotion consisting of one ounce of lactic acid, one ounce of glycerin and six ounces of rose water mixed together and applied with a bit of fresh absorbent cotton two or three times daily.

Although freckles are sometimes undesirable, they are not abnormal and are considered indicative of vigorous health. It is better to have freckles and good health than to be deprived of the benefits of sunshine and fresh air.

How to Camouflage Them
If your crop of freckles worries you, try using a powder foundation a shade deeper than your current skin tone and match your face powder to the color of the foundation. Apply the powder over the foundation thickly and brush the surplus away with a soft bristled powder brush.

Other girls mix a bit of liquid rouge with their face cream. This tints the skin and detracts from the freckles.

If you will take a hint from Myrna Loy, who has a glorified crop of freckles, you will play them up by not wearing any makeup other than a brilliant lip rouge and perhaps eye make-up in the evenings! Her motto is "show them off!"

Natural auburn hair is beautiful—there is no denying that, but to keep its beauty highlighted one must give it careful grooming.

After many experiments with shampoos Myrna Loy finally favors one she makes at home. (That doesn't mean however that there are not some excellent shampoos on our cosmetic counter.)

She takes a bar of pure castile soap, shaves part of it into a little hot water which melts it. Then she beats up a whole egg until it is creamy and adds it to the melted soap. The two are then beaten together.

After shampooing in the ordinary manner, she rinses her hair well with warm water and brushes it dry. That accounts for the lovely sheen her hair has and it makes a lovely frame for her impish, freckled face!

Beware of Dandruff
September is the month to examine your scalp. If it has a flaky dandruff buy a bottle of tincture of green soap at your drugist and shampoo your hair (unless it is dyed). If flakes still remain on your scalp and hair after such a shampoo, you may have a more serious condition.

A Young Wife's Duties
Dear Mrs. Post: After their marriage, what are a young wife's duties to the relatives and friends of her husband? She is going to his town to live and knows practically no one.

Answer: It would seem to me that her greatest objective would be to make herself liked not only by her new in-laws, but by her husband's friends as well—if she wants to be really happy. In order to do this, she must go more than halfway to be sincerely friendly, and very welcoming when they come to see her.

Wedding Boutonnieres
Dear Mrs. Post: (1) Is there a conventional choice of boutonniere for the men in the wedding party, and if so, what is it? (2) At a simple wedding, may this be anything else that might be preferred? (3) And what kind of corsage should be worn when the bride is not wearing wedding clothes?

Answer: (1) Usually carnations or one gerbera. (2) Any white flower. (3) If her dress has white trimmings, white would be most suitable—otherwise, she wears whatever would look best with her clothes.

Proper for Girl of 16 To Begin Having Dates

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—We are a middle aged couple, with children grown up and married. My husband has always been the kindest and most considerate person in the world and has never failed in all the little attentions so dear to a wife's heart, and I have always adored him. We had been married many years when I learned that my husband had been married to a girl who had been unfaithful to me. When I learned that, something within me died. Now my husband tells me, as he has always done, that I am the only woman he ever loved and he asks me, after all the hurt I have been through, if I can't feel toward him as I used to do. Do you know of any way to call back to life that which is dead? MISERABLE.

Answer:

Alas, no. You can no more bring back the beauty and the glamor, the faith and trust of love once they have been destroyed than you can breathe the breath of life into a corpse. Once a wife knows that her husband has betrayed her, that he has lied to her and deceived her and put other women in her place, she may go on having an affection for him, but she never believes in him again. She never sees him again as the hero of her girlish dreams. She never loves him wholly again. And he can no more rouse in her heart the passion of love she once gave him than he could summon a dead woman from her tomb.

She Learns Too Late

Your husband is following the common pattern of the philanderer. He has got old and tired of playing around with other women. The love chase has lost its allure. He is satisfied with painted lips and bought kisses.

Perhaps he realizes that he is growing paunchy and bald and is not such a devil among the girls as he used to be. Perhaps a seat by a warm and steady fire begins to look better to his rheumatic knees than galavanting around night clubs. Anyway, he is coming back to home and Mother.

The irony of it and the tragedy of it is that he expects to take up the old love where he laid it down and for his wife to be able to love him with the same flame of passion and trust she gave him before he had deceived her. He has flouted her and insulted her with his affairs.

He has neglected her and humiliated her and tortured her with jealousy. He has hurt her in a thousand ways, but he expects her to be able to forget it all and run into his arms rejoicing as a bride to her bridegroom.

Love Doesn't Come Back
It can't be done. And that is the bitterness for the woman as well as the man. The wife would gladly go back to the old love if she could, but that is impossible. The fire has burned out in the altar and there is no kindling dead ashes. By the time many a wandering husband comes home to his wife she has waited so long that her interest in him is gone and she doesn't care whether he ever returns or not.

When a woman has an incorrigibly philandering husband there are only two courses open to her. One is to rid herself of a man so weak and disloyal that he cannot be trusted to her.

The other is to comfort herself with the philosophy that "50 years of Europe is better than a cycle of Cathay." For often the philanderer does have every other good quality, and he lavishes on his wife the charms, the graces, the attentions that he does upon his Lady Loves.

The philanderer is incapable of any deep or lasting love, but often he does give to his wife the best that is in him. And despite his flittings from flower to flower, there is in his shallow little heart a drop of real love for her.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My parents said I should write and ask you if you think it is proper for a girl of 16 to go out once in a while with a boy. I have been going with a sensible boy 17 who doesn't keep me out late, and we have good times together, but my father and mother do not know whether I am too young to go out or not. We don't go out more than once every two weeks. DOT.

Answer:

It is entirely proper for a girl of 16 to go out a bit with the boys. Indeed, it is educational, because if she doesn't begin going with boys around that age she is always shy and awkward with them and never learns the technique of how to get along with them.

Besides, it is the best way to keep her from losing her head and going boy-crazy. It is the girls who have never had any dates who imagine every lad to be a glamorous fairy prince and who think they are in love with the first chap who comes along. The girl who has played around with boys all her life knows that Johnny Jones for just what he is, and she doesn't waste any romantic yearnings in her breast.

By all means, start out with your nice boy friend, but don't go steady with any boy. Have as many on your string as you can get. Look 'em over. There is safety in numbers.

Unmarried Women Can Be Happy
Dear Miss Dix—I am one of those accused women who have no attraction for men, and as I think marriage is the only happiness in life for women, rather than be an old maid I am thinking of committing suicide. Don't you think that suicide would be justifiable in my case? CLARICE.

Answer:

Not at all. The world is full of a number of things besides men and marriage, and if you will just give up husband-hunting as not your game and concentrate on some other occupation, you will find that there are plenty of amusements left.

Unmarried women are only unhappy so long as they are trying to marry. Once they give it up, they are among the cheeriest and most contented of people with a lot less to worry over than most of their married sisters.

Anyway, don't be in a hurry about committing suicide, because just around the corner Mr. Right may be coming your way.

Casual Slaughters

By Virginia Hanson

YESTERDAY: Kay tells all and realizes that the Colonel is now convinced of Jeff's guilt. She goes up to her room and finds Mimi there. Mimi bursts out "I'm glad she's dead. She was bad through and through."

Chapter 34

MIMI'S STORY

Mimi took a cigarette from the pack I offered her, lit it and began walking aimlessly about the room, straightening a picture, brushing an invisible speck from the dresser scarf, changing the position of a chair.

"I'm nobody," she began abruptly, in the hard voice of one making an unwilling confession. "I probably don't need to tell you that I must be obvious that I'm out of my element. No—don't interrupt. Maybe it isn't obvious. That's what you were going to say, anyway—perhaps a bit more tactfully. We'll consider it said. But that isn't really what's troubling me. I just want to give you a complete picture of my background so you'll understand better—"

She laid the smoking cigarette on the edge of the dresser and began rearranging my comb and hand mirror which I had not yet repacked. I could see her face in the big glass as she talked, taut and strained and utterly unconscious of what she was doing.

She had been born in a little town in Ohio, and her people were nobody even in that town. Her father worked by the day, her mother took in sewing. They grew before my eyes—decent, God-fearing people with no education beyond the public schools. They had never been anywhere and never wanted to go. They named their only child Mami and expected her to grow up and be happy in the same rut. But Mami had other ideas.

She won a beauty contest when she was in high school. Her voice was flat as she told me about it, but a blush swept her tense face. The prize was a trip to New York. Mami's friends had been to New York, but Mimi stayed on in New York—a beautiful girl in a city of beautiful girls, each like Mimi, with bright dreams of the future. She cashed in her return ticket, and by the time it was spent the dreams were fading and she was glad to get a job as stock girl in one of the Fifth Avenue stores.

"You'll never know how I lived—I don't know myself. I still had high hopes, but I don't photograph well; I can't sing or dance; I'm too short for a model and I have no education. I lied about the last and finally they promoted me to selling."

"I was selling teen-ace dresses when I first saw Dan and Julia. He brought her in to be out-fitted for boarding school, and I waited on them. Kay, you've no idea how wonderful he looked to me. In my ten years in New York I had met a few men—most of them hopeless drunks. I could have done just as well in my own home town, maybe."

DIAGNOSIS:
The best inheritance which a man can leave his children is not money or gilt-edged securities.

Teach your children to win friends and earn a livelihood. Let them learn how to do something for which they can at least procure enough for food and lodging.

Let them become salesmen or waitresses, carpenters or soda fountain clerks. Then they will always be insured against complete economic collapse.

They will always thereafter retain more confidence and assurance because they will know that in an emergency, they can fall back on their trade or technical skill.

Even if they become wealthy and hold high executive positions, they are better off by having a specific trade or commercial capacity. It will add to their morale as long as they live.

Dominant Parents Handicap Children
It is not uncommon for dominant parents to handicap their children by serving as a continuous buffer between the latter and the world.

The children learn to lean upon the go-getter parent, and depend upon his largesse for their spending money. He is their constant crutch. They are thus crippled personally.

Economic conditions, however, are never fixed and inflexible. Highly trusted banks and life insurance companies were caught in the last crash and demolished, wrecking havoc with the invested fortunes of thousands.

For all we know, the last depression may be minor compared to the next one which this country encounters. If you wish to guarantee your children's future most wisely, therefore, invest some money and time training their minds and their fingers.

Invest in Knowledge
"An investment in knowledge," said sage old Benjamin Franklin, "always pays the best dividends."

4580

BY ANNE ADAMS

Working girl... schoolgirl... or just busy young miss about town—Pattern 4580 by Anne Adams is a frock you'll really need! The skirt with its bias front panel, has the jaunty flare girls adore. And the waist-seam swoops to a high point for that grand "slim-away" look. There are nicely bloused lines in the yoked bodice, and long, three-quarter or short sleeves. Make the bow-tying slash just in back, or for greater effectiveness, let it come from the front—either from the panel seams or stitched right on top. Wouldn't the prim little collar and the sash be lovely in velveteen or a frock of plaid or checked wool?

Pattern 4580 is available in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. Size 13 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric and 2 yards contrast.

THE HOME GARDENER
By EDWIN H. PERKINS

A pan of paper-white narcisses to grace the Thanksgiving table should be started just as soon as the bulbs are available at the seed shop. Paper-white narcisses are peculiar in the matter of time required to bring them into bloom. At this season it will require approximately six days from planting to flowering. This period is decreased as winter advances and becomes as short as fifteen days for bulbs planted around March first. Many gardeners find it worth while to start pans at fifteen-day intervals, thus insuring almost continuous blooms.

A pan for paper-white narcisses can consist of almost any water-tight vessel. Decorative bowls are showiest, with cut-glass dishes rapidly creeping up on them for first choice.

Planting the bulbs is the easiest kind of gardening. Half fill the vessel with small stones, set the bulbs with the flowering end pointed up, fill the vessel with stones, pour in water to half fill the container, and the job is started. Place the container in a darkened closet or cellarway for a month (shorten the time as winter progresses) during which time roots are formed, then gradually bring the flowers into strong sunlight for choicest blooming.

Council Action Clarifies Power Of Park Board

All Proposed Work, Material Purchases Must Have Its O. K.

New London — A resolution clarifying the position of the park board in regard to park work and material purchases was adopted by the common council last night.

The resolution, providing that all proposed park work or material purchases first be approved by the board, merely records the powers already in the hands of the board but which it seldom has the opportunity to exercise, according to Chairman William Little who requested its adoption.

Final payment of all orders approved by the board must rest with the council. Orders must be signed by at least two council members of the board before they are valid. Council members are Little, Otto Stern and William Behm, citizen members are E. M. Donner and Dr. M. A. Borchardt. As defined by City Attorney Ormond W. Capener, the board exercises the same functions as the board of public works, acting for the council under its control and supervision.

Consideration of proposed work on lagoons at Hatten Memorial Recreation park was postponed pending an investigation of WPA stipulations. Mayor Lynn Springmire explained that the project as returned by the WPA provides for sponsor's contribution of $700 for use of the city steam shovel in excavating the lagoons when it was previously understood most of the work would be hand labor. It also was explained the city shovel is too large and heavy for use in the soft swamp land of the park and the city would be obliged to hire a smaller caterpillar shovel. The comparative costs of the use of the two machines and the necessity of their use at all will be investigated by the board of public works and park board.

$388 from Pool
Net receipts from Hatten park pool of $388 for the summer was reported by R. M. Shortell, city recreation director. Net receipts were $435 last year.

An expense-paid trip for three New London city officials to the forty-second annual convention of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities at Milwaukee Oct. 9, 10 and 11 was voted by the council. Mayor Springmire, Treasurer L. M. Wright and Attorney Capener will attend the last two days of the conference.

Chief of police Harry D. Macklin and Alderman Otto Stern reported on a study of the school bus safety patrol system at Oshkosh. The system is entirely independent from the police department, they said, and is totally supported, promoted and supervised by the school board. They plan to investigate other cities.

A petition by residents for the installation of a street light at the extreme end of E. Quincy street was granted.

Tavern operators licenses were granted to Gordon Bellile and Melvin Westphal.

A report by Police Justice Fred J. Rogers of $75 in fines collected during August was accepted. Justice fees on city cases for the month amounted to $24.95.

Van Wyck Brooks, who distinguished himself several years ago with his remarkable book, "The Flowering of New England," continues his literary history with a new work called "New England, Indian Summer."

The candid adventures of a reporter in the world of witchcraft of today are related by William Seabrook in his book, "Witchcraft." "The Fire and the Wood" is a gripping novel of a brilliant young doctor in Germany in 1932, who is ready to sacrifice his patients if necessary in his cold passion for research. R. C. Hutchison is the author.

A real book of humor is claimed for "My Sister Eileen" by Ruth McKenney. Two new detective mysteries are "Vintage Murder" by Ngaio Marsh and "The Corpse Grows a Beard" by Margaret Scherf.

Reds Win A. L. Title; Cleveland Leads A. L.

Tigers Split With A's; Sox Play to 37,000

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

While the American league has been muddling around for two weeks like so many rabbits in a pen, the Cincinnati Reds have copied their second straight National league pennant with an impressive display of decision and dispatch.

Their 4-3 triumph in 13 innings over the Phillies yesterday was their sixteenth victory in 18 games. A blistering finish, that may have an important bearing on the world series.

It used to be the other way around. The American leaguers would show up early with a great show of invincibility and pounce upon their prey when the National league delegate finally arrived all out of breath. The Reds didn't stave off the rush of the St. Louis Cardinals last year until Sept. 28, three days before the season closed, and they practically collapsed into the pit the Yankees had waiting.

But now, it is the American league that is locked in a death struggle. The Cleveland Indians were so desperate yesterday they called out Bobby Feller with two days rest to face the seventh-place Washington Senators. The strategy worked, and the Tribe triumphed in both ends of a doubleheader, 3-1 and 2-1, to regain first place. But it might boomerang when the Indians open a three-game series with Detroit tomorrow.

Macks, Tigers Split

The Philadelphia Athletics, the same tag-alongs who knocked Cleveland off the top perch Tuesday, scored nine runs in the second game of their double bill at Detroit yesterday to get a split and force the Tigers out of the lead. With the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox dividing their double feature, the standings are:

	W	L	Pct.	B'd	Play
Cleveland	41	61	.579	9
Detroit	33	61	.576	10
New York	79	64	.552	4	11
Chicago	79	64	.552	5	9

Cincinnati hardly could be blamed for snickering at that sort of spectacle, with the lead changing hands six times in ten days. As far as their own race is concerned, the Reds have been in first place continuously since July 7 and never worse than third any time this year.

The honor of clinching the flag fell to Johnny Vander Meer, as a bit of added drama. The no-hit king showed signs of his old self as he kept eight hits scattered and struck out ten. Then, in the thirteenth, he led off with a double and scored the winning run.

The St. Louis Cardinals, of all clubs, gave the Reds an assist by crushing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 14-7, with a 17-hit bombardment that included four singles by Johnny Mize good for six runs. This left Brooklyn 12 games behind with ten to play. The Reds have 14 to go and could lose them all without harm.

Cubs Topple Giants

In the two other National league games, Jim Tobin held his old Pirate teammates to five hits as the Boston Bees beat Pittsburgh 4-1, and Stan Hack hit two homers and a single to help the Chicago Cubs hand the New York Giants their tenth straight setback, 6-4.

Cleveland's opening victory over Washington was credited to the six-hit pitching of Johnny Allen, but Lefty Knepper of the Senators forced in all three of the Indians' runs with walks to help.

Feller was practically untouchable with five-hit hurling in the nightcap. The tragedy of the Tigers was that they won their first game in this frame, Benny McCoy had done the same in the fourth.

Chicago came close to passing over the Yanks into third place, and 37,000 ardent southsiders were present for the kill. Lefty Thornton Lee pitched six-hit ball as the Sox won the first game, 6-3. In the second game, the Yanks led off with four runs in the first, but Chicago came right back with five and added three more in the fourth. Then Twink Selkirk homered with two on in the seventh; the Yanks got two more in the eighth, and darkness closed the show before Chicago could do anything about it.

The St. Louis Browns squelched the Boston Red Sox, 11-2, with a 14-hit offensive.

Need More Caddies

As far as Everett Leonard, Butte des Morts golf club pro, is concerned, all this unemployment talk is bunk. Leonard is having trouble securing enough caddies these days and has issued an S. O. S. call for caddies and young men who want to

"One of Best Hunting Seasons" Seen by Conservation Expert

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — "One of the best hunting seasons of the past decade."

That's the estimate of W. E. Scott, supervisor of cooperative game management of the state conservation department of the prospects before several hundred thousand Wisconsin hunters who are impatiently awaiting the opening season of seasons of upland game and waterfowl.

Scott points out that because upland game bird cycles this year are near their high point, and because the status of water fowl generally is unusually satisfactory, state and federal regulatory bodies this year

Cincinnati Fans Accept Pennant With Strange Calm

BY JOHN FRYE

Cincinnati — (AP) — A year ago next week, followers of the national sport in this town were whooping themselves hoarse, kissing perfect strangers, doing hand springs across the suspension bridge, and acting in general as if somebody had just gone the length of Vine street tossing negotiable bonds out of a barrel.

Today there is a strange calm, as dead as the geometric center of a vacuum, spread over the queen city. Solid citizens are going about their beer and skittles as if nothing had happened.

Last year the Reds won their first pennant in 20 years and this year they won their second in 21. But for all the excitement, you'd think the Red fans were New Yorkers, who have had pennants in one league or the other for a good part of those two decades.

For your Cincinnati fan the immediate issue of the Reds winning the pennant was in the bag weeks ago. Even through the Reds' dreary August slump he knew they'd come through, though at times he said different.

Thus the next issue is something he can't control — "Who's to be the opposition in the World series, which we are going to win?"

So, until that matter is settled, nobody's getting up much steam. But if the Reds bring home that world championship, hold your hats!

Kolbusz Lost to Badger Squad

Hasn't Recovered From Recent Operations and May Quit for Semester

Madison — (AP) — Don Kolbusz of Green Bay, who earned a varsity letter at guard on the University of Wisconsin football team last season, will not play this year, Coach Harry Stuhldreher said today.

Kolbusz, who underwent an appendectomy early last month, has not recovered sufficiently to undergo rigorous grid competition. He may withdraw from school and return next semester.

The Badgers lost Claude York, veteran halfback, last week when medical advisors recommended he forego the grid sport until he recovered adequately from an attack of rheumatic fever.

Stuhldreher has cancelled scrimmages scheduled for today and tomorrow to permit the squad to recover from a mild epidemic of bruises, and pulled muscles.

The Badgers engaged in a lengthy kicking drill yesterday. Among the best performers were Fred Gage, Don Miller, Mark Hoskins and Bob Bauman.

Notre Dame, Strangely Enough, Boasts of a Few Irish Gridders

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York — (AP) — Nineteen nationalities are represented on the Notre Dame squad including, strangely enough, a few Irish. . . Billy Soose, uncrowned middleweight king (the beat both champs), will get the Ken Overlin-Steve Belloise winner. . . The National Youth Administration organized more than 2,000 boys in baseball leagues in 30 Michigan counties this summer to compete for trophies offered by Babe Ruth, Clark Griffith and Ty Cobb.

Tail, Tail Story

This one comes out of the Minnesota-Canada border country, where they just naturally grow "big." . . When a car crash out a visiting ball team to seven men, one guy played the outfield. . . The pitcher accommodated by losing a no-hitter, with only one long fly to bother the lone gardener.

Looks like the 14-game losing streak of the St. Louis Browns will cap the 1940 record. No National league club has been able to get past 10 in the back-sliding department. . . Father of Ginger Foran, the British featherweight, was killed in an air raid on Liverpool. . . Wilbur Hays, ex-intercollegiate champ, says Jess Neely is so popular at Rice he can stay there the rest of his life, if he wants to.

Pity the poor tom boy, Patty Berg has to dress up again-to be a bridesmaid for her sister. That makes twice within a year. . . Pat Comiskey refused to shake hands with Max Baer at Jack Kearns' barbecue, and the feud is on—in the papers.

Ouch Dep't.

When Dom DiMaggio started to steal second, then tied up the game by scoring all the way from first on two White Sox boots, Jimmy Dykes fell off the bench, so hard he wrenched his left knee. . . Couldn't drive his car home that night and still limps.

Omigosh

The press agent of LaSalle college, Philadelphia, reports the spearhead of the team's attack will be "Paul Prettyman, a passing, punting, perambulating left half-back." . . Pretty punk, phwat?

REDS CELEBRATING AFTER CLINCHING PENNANT—The Cincinnati Reds rejoice in their dressing room after clinching their second straight National league championship by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 3, in a 13-inning battle at Philadelphia. The players hoisted Manager Bill McKechnie on their shoulders amid shouts and cheers.

Purdue Continues to Stress Aerial Route to Goal Lines

Chicago — (AP) — Chances are that

Purdue will have a lot of football teams up in the air this fall.

That's where they'll have to be to cope with the Boilermakers' "luft-waffe," for in practice Purdue continues to stress the aerial route to touchdowns. And with good reason.

While losing 26 letters from the squad that finished third behind Ohio State and Iowa in the Big Ten race last year, Purdue still has Mike Byelene. The five foot, eight inch halfback can pass and run and is a scoring threat any time he handles the ball.

Last season he had one of the highest percentages of pass completions among midwest backs. Drills this year indicate he has lost none of his efficiency. And as receivers he will have such fast steppers as Captain Dave Rankin, runner up in the conference low hurdles, and Ted Tykocki, who has a mark of 21 1/4 for the 220 yard dash.

So there is little wonder at the mass aerial practice Coach Mal Elward is directing daily at LaFayette.

Also working out as gridiron bangers are veterans Johnny Galvin and sophomores Bryan Brock and Marion Carter.

Kicking, too, is coming in for its share of attention and Purdue hopes brightened considerably yesterday with the continued improvement of John Petty, senior fullback.

Michigan also devoted considerable time to punting with Tom Har-

St. John High to Play Edgewood

Little Chute Eleven Opens Season Sunday On Madison Gridiron

Little Chute — St. John high gridders will invade Madison Sunday afternoon to meet Edgewood high in the opening game of the Dutchmen's schedule.

Edgewood usually has a strong team and is favored over the locals, although the St. John lineup practically will be the same as last season. Only the ends graduated last spring.

Coach Marty De Bruin will depend on his first stringers to bear the brunt of battle but has a number of reserves ready to step into the regulars' shoes. With Woody McCabe and Harold Vandem Heuvel to do the blocking, Jimmy Koehn and Cletus Hurst will carry the mail beyond the line of scrimmage. The four will comprise the starting backfield.

The linemen will be paced by Oney Wildenberg, 200 pound tackle, Kenny Hurst, Joe Simons, Ray Koms, Versteeg and Lenz while Van Grunsven will be at the pivot post. Reserves who will be in before the end of the game will be Don Fosters, Gene Weyenberg, Clyde Koehn, Joe DeGroot, Dick Vanden Shanski drawing chief attention.

Shakeups were the order of the day at Indiana and Minnesota. Only four of the regulars in the Minnesota lineup Tuesday were back there yesterday as the Gophers skipped afternoon drills because of the heat and held a night workout under the lights at Indiana Coach Bo McMillin shifted halfback Bill Timpane to end in an effort to bolster reserve strength in the wings.

With seven players, including veteran guard Don Kolbusz, sidelined, Coach Harry Stuhldreher called off contact work until Saturday to save his Wisconsin squad from further injuries. Kolbusz has failed to show improvement from an appendectomy and a leg operation and will be out for the season.

Northwestern and Ohio State held scrimmages, the Buckeyes requiring only three plays and 49 seconds from the kickoff to score against a reserve squad, Iowa drilled on forward pass offense and defense. At Illinois Coach Robert Zuppke said "we're over the hump on tackling and fundamentals. Now we'll have to polish our plays and work for smoothness."

Norfolk, Va. — Ken Overlin, 165, Decatur, Ill., recognized in New York and California as middleweight champion, outpointed Irish Eddie Pierce, 162, Paterson, N. J., (10).

Clints Pointed For an Upset

Play Neenah Rockets Friday Evening in Season's First Tilt

Clintonville — Clintonville High football team will be out for a repeat win over the Neenah Red Rockets when the two teams clash Friday evening. The game, to be played under the lights here, will open the 1940 conference season for both clubs. Last year the Clints climaxed their season with an impressive 7 to 6 victory over the Red Rockets. Most of the boys who took part in the game form the bulk of the present squad, Coach Arthur Johnson having 11 returning lettermen.

The Clints have a big, husky team this season with a line that will average about 170 pounds and a backfield averaging 150 pounds. The only drawback is the lack of reserves but in recent practices several newcomers have been showing remarkable progress. The squad has shown lots of spark this past week and with the exception of one boy, Keeser Zemke, the entire squad of 40, will be ready to go Friday.

Zemke, a backfield candidate, is out with an injured ankle.

The Red Rockets have a strong club with the bulk of the squad returning from last season. Most feared is Kettering who is adept in the art of passing, kicking and running.

Coach Arthur Johnson started this week with a scrimmage and gave every boy a chance to show. There isn't a position on the club that is cinched yet, according to Coach Johnson, and there won't be until the boys show how well they can perform under fire. Tuesday evening the Clints dwelled on passing and pass defense.

The starting lineup probably will include Lyle Roloff and Jim Breed as ends, Captain Curt Lemke and Lawrence Geiger at tackles, Red Klitz and Bud Zoch at guards, with Rheindol Kiel at center. In the backfield, Fredrick Klitz will be at the blocking back, Milford Bodah and Jim Werner at halves, and Jack DeCousin at fullback.

Though league competition has ended and awards were distributed at a banquet last week, Thursday men's events will continue at Butte des Morts Golf club until the end of season. The program includes golf in the afternoons, a buffet lunch and social activities in the evening. Saturday will be guest day at the club.

Heuvel, Bob Van Asten and Kenny Shannon.

On Sept. 27 the local griddeis will go to Kimberly.

Bears Still Have Edge in Packer Series

Pro Teams to Meet For 43rd Time at Green Bay Sunday

Green Bay — Episode No. 43 in the traditional feud between the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers of the National Football league will be enacted at City stadium here Sunday afternoon.

The Packers and Bears have battled together more than any other set of rivals in the circuit. In no less than 26 of these games a touchdown, field goal, safety or point after touchdown would have altered the decision—so evenly have they fought since the series started in 1921.

Green Bay fans know too well that the Bears still have a slight edge in victories. The Bears have won 20 games, the Packers were triumphant in 18, and four of the games ended in tied scores. Statistics show that the Bears have piled up 414 points, while the Packers collected 386.

Officials expect the largest crowd in Green Bay's history when the Bears play here Sunday afternoon. There always has been a great demand for Bear game tickets, and the rush seems to be even greater this year.

There is one basis for comparison of the two teams this year, and it gives every indication for a bitterly fought contest. Earlier this year the Bears defeated Philadelphia, 27 to 21. Last Sunday the Packers won over the Eagles, 27 to 20.

The Bears are well loaded with talent this season, just as they always have been. Halfback Jack Manders, who has the distinction of being the greatest point after touchdown and field goal kicker in the world, is among those great veterans who is back this season. Manders has caused the Packers plenty of trouble, and is a definite threat whenever the battles are close.

Pointing out the outstanding man in difficult in a lineup of brilliant performers, but Sid Luckman, another halfback, would be near the top in any vote. He is only 24 years old, and should be playing his best this season.

Kimberly Gridders Open Season at Chilton Saturday

Kimberly — Saturday will be the opening day of football at Chilton when Coach Ray Hamann takes his high school griddeis to that city for a non-conference game. Chilton still is smarting from the defeat Kimberly handed them last year and plan to give the invaders a sound trouncing.

The Papermaker mentor lost nine seniors by graduation last spring and has to build a new team around a few veterans. The ends have shown improvement over their work of a week ago when they gained good experience in a scrimmage with Neenah high at that city.

Papermakers will be hosts to St. John, Little Chute, Friday night, Sept. 27. Kimberly stepped on the Dutchmen's toes last year with a decisive victory over that team; but with a veteran team this year, the Dutchmen claim that a Little Chute victory would mean the downfall of the goal posts. Whenever these two teams meet, business is at a standstill in both villages.

Feiner Beers Defeat A.A.L. in Pin Match

Feiner Beers downed Aid Association for Lutheran bowlers in a recent special match at Arcade alleys by a count of 2,852 to 2,585. Wally Roblee led the winners with games of 201, 192 and 223 for a 618 series. Bud Stach was close behind with 211 and 217 for a 595 and Bob Deuster and Bob Nehls each added games of 208. Tops for the losers were L. Freude with a 227 game and A. Poepp with a 567 series.

Comiskey, With New Left, Is All Set For 2nd Big Test

PAT COMISKEY: 'If He Whips Boer And Continues To Improve—'

BY DILLON GRAHAM
Jersey City, N. J., (AP)—Most fight managers have to caution their young boxers about winning women or the horses, but with Bill Daly it's different. His scrapper, Pat Comiskey, is nuts about automobiles, red ones.

As soon as he gets his share of a fight purse, Pat is off for motor row, to stand in front of a sleek, slick model and admire it lovingly. Daly is going nuts, too, trying to steer a willing Patrick out of the clutches of more than willing car salesmen. Daly agrees with Pat that red roadsters are nice but he figures—Pat to the contrary—that one is enough for a 19-year-old boy not so long out of a $16-a-week job pushing a wheel barrow in an iron foundry.

Comiskey-Baer
Pat, a burly, blond buster out of Paterson, N. J., is going to fight Madcap Maxie Baer in Jersey City September 26th. For more than a year now this overgrown kid has been tabbed as the most promising of the younger heavyweights. Everyone, though, agreed he needed much more seasoning before being turned loose against Joe Louis. Baer will be his first major opponent. If he can win decisively over the big bad Baer, Pat will be ready to take on any of the other better rated heavies with a shot at Louis virtually a cinch for next summer.

Comiskey is the fighter Bill Daly went all the way to Ireland to find. Bill searched County Cork, discarded a fistful of bruisers with glass jaws and disgustingly shipped back to Paterson.

Trainer Johnny Lane listened to Daly's woes and laughed: "Well, if it's an Irish fighter you want, I've got the lad right here in your home town. Kid name of Comiskey."

"What? That's Polish!" snorted Daly.

"Polish, nothing," returned Lane. "He's pure Irish."

And so the partnership was formed, something over two years ago.

Hippo At First

When Daly took him over Comiskey was just a tall, broad-shouldered husky with strong arms. He was about as graceful as an elephant. He knew nothing about boxing, except that no one had been able to stand up under the clouting of his huge right fist. As they say around the gymnasium, "The guy had two left feet. He could trip over either of them with uncanny ease."

Months of gymnasium work taught him something about footwork and how to duck and slide away from punches. Daly brought him along slowly, hand-picking his foes building up his confidence. Pat ran up an impressive-sounding string of knockouts. Then last winter he had his first big test, against Steve Dudas. Steve had passed his peak—but Steve had fought some top notchers along the way. He knew his way around. His unorthodox movements and crafty maneuvering had the inexperienced Pat in a fog all night. The kid broke his hand thumping Steve's head and lost the decision.

It's An All Wind—

Then it was back to dry dock for six months. While his right hand was healing Daly made him concentrate on his left. Up to then the boy had had nothing but a right, a powerful, straight-punching right that bowled over everything it hit.

A smart foe, though, knowing the source of Pat's dynamite, could keep clear of that right.

When Pat was revealed again he flashed a left that astonished boxing fans. It was one of the fastest hardest left jabs in the business. Not only could he stab with that left, he could whip it across for a knock-out punch.

He beat Dudas in a return match and a few weeks ago he knocked out Bob Sikes of Arkansas on the Baer-Galento card.

Comiskey is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs around 200 pounds. If he whips Baer and continues to show improvement during the next year he may beat Louis for the championship.

Cedar Rapids Is Top Dog in 3-Eye League

Downs Decatur to Annex Undisputed Honors in Circuit

Cedar Rapids, Iowa—(AP)—It was all over but the shouting in the Three Eye league today and all the shouting was being done in Cedar Rapids.

The Cedar Rapids club took undisputed honors for the season by winning the playoff title against Decatur last night, 13 to 12, after having previously won the league pennant.

The Raiders, who also won the pennant last year, were the first team in Three Eye league history to finish in front both in league standings and the playoff series.

Cedar Rapids entered the finals after whipping Springfield three out of five in the first round playoffs while the Commies, who finished second in the pennant race, conquered Evansville to reach the last series.

Last night's victory was the third straight for Cedar Rapids, the Raiders having lost the opener to Decatur. Each team slugged out 15 hits in the final game but were weak afield. Decatur committing five errors and the Raiders four.

Decatur Takes Lead

Decatur started the run making in the second inning with six men coming across, and added three more in the third inning to lead 9 to 1. The next two innings saw the Raiders push eight runs across to tie the count.

Cedar Rapids went ahead in the sixth, scoring three runs to Decatur's one but an eighth inning homer with one on brought the Commies abreast Cedar Rapids settled the issue in the last half of the ninth.

Max Surkont started on the mound for Decatur but was knocked out in the fifth when Hart took over. Roh succeeded Hart in the next inning. The Raiders used four pitchers, Reynolds, Gravin, Calvert and Embree, the latter pitching the last two innings after putting in a full nine inning stint the previous night.

Midwest Opener Will Feature Coe, Monmouth

Cedar Rapids, Ia. — Quickly shaping his varsity for the game with Monmouth here Saturday, Coe college Coach Moray L. Eby carded regular scrimmage sessions this week after his first stringers had defeated a second team 26 to 0 in a regulation game.

Injuries have been at a minimum with the Kohawks this year, the only serious casualty being a sprained ankle suffered by Joe Singer, regular right halfback. X-rays showed pulled ligaments and the Park Ridge, Ill., man will surely be kept from the opening game.

New York—(P)—Bill Hutchinson, Dartmouth's fine back, today signed a contract with the New York Yankees of the American Pro Football league, according to Coach Jack McBride. McBride said that the Yankees would open the season here Sept. 29 against Boston.

BARTELL ADDS TO DETROIT RUN TOTAL—Dick Bartell, Tiger shortstop, slid across the plate with the tenth Detroit run as the pennant-aspiring Tigers swamped the Philadelphia Athletics, 14 to 0, in the first game of a doubleheader in Detroit. Bartell scored on Charley Gehring's double. Wagner, the Philadelphia catcher, had no time to make a play after leaping high in the air for the throw. Philadelphia won the second game, 13 to 6.

ARTIFICIAL LURES GAIN LEAD OVER NATURAL BAITS

By Charley Johnson

Live bait fishermen were given a trimming by the fishermen who use artificial lures. It was found recently in a creel census taken by the Missouri conservation commission on Lake Taneycomo in the "Show Me" state.

By going from boat to boat during a three-day period, commission agents found that the 79 fishermen who were using natural baits, such as minnows, worms, and crayfish, had in their possession 147 fish, or an average of 1.86 fish per person. The nine fishermen who were using artificial baits had in their possession 20 fish, or an average of 2.22 fish per person.

Those using natural baits, it was found, caught 113 crappies, 11 largemouth bass, 8 bluegills, 8 long-eared sunfish, 4 green sunfish, 2 yellow catfish, and 1 Kentucky bass. The artificial lure casters took 9 crappies, 10 largemouth bass, and 1 blue gill.

The figures, though interesting, do not necessarily prove that bait and fly casters, generally, have it over the live bait fishermen.

Some Use Both Kinds

Nor is it exactly correct to make arbitrary classifications, defining fishermen as either live bait or artificial bait addicts. Many are both. The good fisherman is the one who can size up the situation and adapt his methods to the conditions confronting him. If the fish are on the rise, which usually is the case during the later afternoon and evening hours, the fly fisherman and even the plug fisherman has an advantage. During the heat of the day when the fish often go deep the wise fisherman may turn to live baits.

Although we, ourselves, do much more fishing with artificial lures than with live bait, we like, occasionally, to fish with worms or minnows, as the occasion seems to demand. Then, too, still fishing is a

Driscoll Finds Three Speedy Left Halfbacks

Millwaukee—(P)—Marquette's head magician Paddy Driscoll dipped into a football helmet at yesterday's scrimmage and came up with three jackrabbit left halfbacks who can run and pass.

Jimmy Richardson, Bob McCall and Harvey Baerwald were the backs who took the left halfback trick and performed with the big three—quarterback Phillips, fullback Renzel and right half Gooden—to bury the frosh under an eleven touchdown avalanche. Rank Rice and Hall also worked in the backfield.

The year's second scrimmage resulted in no new injuries and gave Driscoll and Taylor a lineup on several promising sophomore linemen.

Seymour Out To Even Count

To Cross Bats With Manitowoc in Playoff Tilt Sunday Morning

Green Bay — Baseball will also be on tap for the football fans who come here Sunday as the second game of the Northern State league championship playoff between Manitowoc and Seymour is scheduled at Joannes park, 10 a. m.

Last Sunday the teams crossed bats at Manitowoc and the Shipbuilders triumphed 2-1 over the invading Seymour squad. It was nip and tuck all the way. Howard Bowers homered for Seymour in the fifth stanza and George Hesik, the Manitowoc pitcher, rapped out a circuit clout in the seventh to even the score. In the ninth, Catcher Querin Simon's "Ruthian" swat sewed up the victory for the McCambridge - Borths combination.

Manitowoc won the first half of the flag hunt and Seymour led the pack home in the closing lap. Both clubs possess gilt-edged pitching staffs and the rival lineups are sprinkled with outstanding baseballers who have been basking in the diamond limelight in Northwestern Wisconsin for quite a spell.

Sunday morning's game is expected to attract a bumper throng. Seymour will turn out en masse to back Bill Row's club while a young army of fans is coming over from Manitowoc to take in baseball before lunch and football in the afternoon.

Giles Hopes Reds Tangle With Detroit

Cincinnati Comes From Behind to Bag 2nd Straight Flag

BY TED MEIER

Philadelphia — (P) — The champions of the National league — the Cincinnati Reds — don't care what team wins the American league pennant, but General Manager Warren Giles hopes it's Detroit.

Giles watched his club clinch their second straight flag by coming from behind yesterday to beat the Phillies, 4 to 3, in 13 innings as he Brooklyn lost to St. Louis.

"We'd probably draw more in dollars and cents if we played Cleveland," Giles said. "But on the other hand we might not. There might be 80,000 in the Cleveland stadium one day and then drop off. Then that dissection sort of takes the bang out of it."

"In spite of what a lot of people might think, ball clubs consider more things than money. I don't care who wins the American league pennant—we'll beat whoever it is—but I think we'd do better with Detroit than any other team."

The Reds whooped it up in their dressing room after southpaw Johnny Vander Meer scored the winning run in the 12th but the big celebration was reserved for tonight. The boys want Paul Derringer to win his 20th game against the Phils today.

"We'll celebrate tonight," explained Manager Deacon Bill McKechnie. "We have a day off tomorrow. Today we play ball. The boys deserve a celebration."

City Purchases 3rd Ward Land For Playground

River, North Water Streets Property Is Bought for $1,175

Neenah—The city council purchased Third ward land on W. North Water and River streets for playground purposes at a meeting last night at city hall. The price accepted was $1,175.

The land was purchased from Mrs. Jessie Buck and William Oehlke after lengthy negotiations on prices. Mrs. Buck receiving $850 and Oehlke $325. Most of the land, known as the Sturges property, consists of a large hole which will have to be filled. Alderman Richard O'Brien has been the principal proponent for the Third ward playground.

Action on opening Birch street was deferred. Otto Lieber of the Lieber Lumber and Millwork company, who has sold five homes and is expecting to sell another five on the street, requested that it be opened. But Alderman Andrew Andersen said that property owners on the north end of the proposed street objected, for they have no gold through considerable expense. The council adopted the second Lieber addition.

Applications from Alvin W. Nelson to amend the zoning ordinance to change the northeast corner of Church street and Franklin avenue from a local to a business district was referred to the plans commission.

Repair Work
The council instructed the street department to fill in all excavations left by the water department crews and charge the cost of the work to the water department. Clerk H. S. Zemlock reported that the annual convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities will be at Milwaukee Oct. 9, 10 and 11, and the aldermen voted to attend with expenses paid.

Gordon Parker, Main street, was granted a Class B beer license and Walter Foelcher, Anspach street, was granted a Class A retail license.

Shore Property Owners Make No Claims in Land Dispute

Neenah—A controversy of long duration nearing final solution last night when property owners along Lake Shore avenue made no claims to the property between the avenue and Lake Winnebago over the city's easement of highway purposes in communications read by City Clerk H. S. Zemlock at a meeting of the council at city hall.

The council Aug. 10 notified property owners to remove all obstructions from the land within 30 days as a test to determine whether there is a controversy, and the property owners replied in the letter they had no interests or claims on the property.

Two of them, however, submitted applications to retain boat slips and a water pipe from the lake and after considerable argument as to whether this should be permitted, the aldermen referred the application to the committee on public improvements with instructions to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Mrs. W. Z. Stuart, a former alderwoman, who for years has been the proponent of a fight for city ownership of the property, again appeared before the council accompanied by an Appleton attorney. She requested an opinion in writing from City Attorney John W. O'Leary on the status of the property.

Gives Opinion
The attorney agreed and again stated his opinion, that the land is owned by the property owners along the avenue but that ownership is subject to the city's easement of the right to public travel. He explained that the city can use the land for highway purposes but for nothing else, such as a park. The property owners, on the other hand, can't use it in any way to obstruct traveling. Contending that it is the law of the state, the attorney referred Mrs. Stuart to the decision of the supreme court in this same case which she brought before it.

Neenah's traffic problems again were aired at the meeting, and Police Chief Irving Stip explained a plan to produce a bicycle safety film which will be used in the safety education program. The council appropriated $50 for the purchase of film for the motion picture. The chief also outlined his bicycle court which will be established in conjunction with the Boys' Brigade.

The problem of bicycle traffic over N. Commercial streets again was discussed, and Alderman John Heigl offered a suggestion proposed by citizens that a bicycle and pedestrian bridge be constructed over the Fox river for island residents. He asked that the aldermen study the proposal.

The sidewalk construction program was discussed when three S. Park avenue property owners appeared and requested that a sidewalk be constructed on the east side of the street as well as the west, the council at the last meeting having authorized a sidewalk on the west side. The aldermen assured the men that a sidewalk would be built on their side of the street next year and that no partiality will be shown.

Alderman Heigl and Andrew Andersen contended that there are streets in Neenah without sidewalks which are really needed and that they should be installed whether or not there are petitions. Alderman Carl Loehning, chairman of that committee, explained that the department hasn't been able to complete work for which there have been petitions.

Mathematics Tests Shells

Ammunition Sampled In Small Way to Tell If Shipment Is Good

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Philadelphia—How mathematics is put to a new use to test the quality of ammunition for war was described to the bicentennial conference of the University of Pennsylvania today by Capt. Leslie E. Simpson, United States army ordnance department.

The equations of statistical theory is the name of the formulae used to insure good shells both for big guns and rifles.

Sampling, Capt. Simpson explained, always has been the method of testing. It is too costly to inspect each shell. In the old way the samples were selected at random and the whole batch judged by their performance.

This, he said, permitted inferior stuff to pass when the random batch happened to be above average and also sometimes threw out superior ammunition because one sample happened to be inferior.

The statistical theory uses sampling in a different way. Safe limits, or standards of excellence, are set up for the shells. When the first batch comes in from a manufacturer, numerous small samples are fired, not at random, but in the order of manufacture.

In these samples the average of all the defects shall be three times that allowed by the rules.

In subsequent batches only random samples are needed to learn whether quality of manufacture is being maintained.

The result is, Captain Simpson said, that if the quality is good, only the first batch has to be subjected to large sampling tests.

If the ammunition fails to pass the first test, its quality is poor, and the army is protected against accepting it.

Declare State Lags in Aid to School System

Wisconsin Property Owners Foot Bulk Of Educational Bill

Post-Crescent Madison bureau Madison—Sixteen per cent of the cost of running the local public school system in Wisconsin is borne by other than general property taxpayers, the Wisconsin Education association estimated today.

That proportion of the total school costs is paid by the state and federal governments in aids supplied by income, utility, and other taxpayers, it was pointed out.

The total from those sources is about $8,520,000 a year. The state's contribution to the schools for the year ending June 30, 1940 was about $8,200,000, the association found, while the federal government during the same year paid $320,000 in educational grants to Wisconsin.

However, the association maintained that the proportion of state expenditure for education lags behind that of other states.

"The average state supplies nearly one third of the cost of schools from state sources and one state, Delaware, furnishes 93 per cent of the cost of schools from the state treasury," the association's statement said.

"Property taxpayers in Wisconsin in the opinion of the association while appreciating the tax relief made possible by state and federal aid to education, have every right to expect to be treated as well as the property taxpayers of other states."

Here are the figures by counties of aids paid by state and federal governments for schools in the northeastern Wisconsin area:

County	State	Federal	Total
Brown	$146,192	$10,201	$156,393
Outagamie	156,399	8,139	164,538
Calumet	37,276	2,065	39,341
Shawano	97,094	770	97,864
Manitowish	121,390		121,390

Waupaca High to Have First Football Squad in 20 Years

Waupaca—Waupaca's first high school football team in 20 years is scrimmaging often this week to give Coach LeRoy Haberkorn a line on his material. A squad of thirty-five boys answered the call with the prospect of more coming out as enthusiasm mounts.

Backfield and end material is plentiful but line reserves are needed. The ends are handled by Gordon Jensen and Roger McLean, senior and junior respectively. Ed Peterson and Bill Vroman, both juniors, are pushing the first named. Reuben Weitz and Tom Larson, two freshmen, complete the end roster.

The backfield abounds with good passers. Tom Holly leads the quarterbacks and has been outstanding. John Sunby and Bob Prochnow are battling for the second spot at the signal calling post. The former is a freshman, the latter a sophomore. Bob Christofferson holds down the running halfback position with Norman Peterson and George Caldwell next in order.

Sammy Taylor is the cream of the blocking backs and is the best punter on the squad. Larry Woody and Alfred Opichka are close in ability. Alwyn Barden, a freshman, also is a candidate for this vital position. Ward Rudersdorf is the leading fullback candidate and his spirit and drive make him a leading offensive threat. Bob Erickson and Arden Polly are the other fullbacks.

Stinemat at Center

Two seniors are fighting it out for the center spot with Phil Stinemat having the edge on Ed Larkee. The former's work has been a pleasure to the coaching staff. Leonard Eckstein is the other center. The guards are plentiful but not satisfactory for fast company. Marilyn Uhl and Wesley Sosinski, a sophomore and freshman respectively, are the first string guards but lack weight. Erwin Beach and Robert Babn, two seniors, are holding down the second string guard positions and threaten to take the job away from their younger and heavier teammates. They are the heaviest men on the squad. Ed Pflum, George Drivas and Jack Clinton are the other guards.

The tackle spots also are fairly light and need improvement. John Durrant and Harland Newman, two juniors, hold the inside tackle.

Lightning Hits Several Places At Clintonville

Clintonville—Lightning struck several places here during the severe electric and rain storm which prevailed over this section early Wednesday morning. The fire department was called at 3:15 to the residence of Mrs. Clara Brackob on Auto street, where the lightning had hit the chimney. Boards were torn up in the attic and other damage done but no fire resulted.

At 4:45 the firemen received their second call when lightning struck the home of Mrs. Joseph Gretzinger on Seventh street. The bolt hit the electric wires and burned the cable leading to the electric stove.

During the storm lightning also struck the John Ewer barn on route 2, damaging the electric switches. The bolt followed the aerial wire to the house where it ripped the siding and burned out the radio.

Many homes in the city had flooded basements and the river rose rapidly Wednesday morning following the heavy rain.

GRAN CHACO TRAVELERS

In the heart of South America is a vast region known as the Gran Chaco. The name means "Great Wilderness."

The Gran Chaco has an area of more than a quarter of a million square miles. It contains forests, swamps, grassy prairies and jungle lands. It is a breeding place for insects. From time to time, vast swarms of locusts leave the Gran Chaco and sweep over Argentina or some other country.

White men have made trips through the Gran Chaco, but have suffered from insect bites and other troubles. One traveler, Harry Franck, set down these notes:

"For nearly a week the trail led through a dense forest of immense trees. I knew it was inhabited by wild Indians who often shot travelers with long arrows. Along the northern edge, I saw footprints of both Indians and jaguars."

"On this journey I suffered most from the attacks of tiny knots, too small to be seen by the naked eye except when they swirl about one in clouds. Their bite is like the prick of a hot needle."

Indians of Gran Chaco

Two large rivers run through the Gran Chaco. In the rainy season, they rise in flood, and thousands of square miles are covered with water.

The Lengua Indians of the Gran Chaco use bows with a length of from eight to 10 feet. The arrows are from three to four feet long. The common costume of these Indians is a blanket wrapped around the waist. It may reach down as far as the ankles.

The Lengua tribesmen make their blankets from wool. A red coloring is obtained from certain insects. Bark of trees supply yellow and brown colors.

It is true that Gran Chaco Indians sometimes shoot arrows at travelers, but it must not be supposed that this always happened. Many natives have proved friendly to whites who came for visits.

The Gran Chaco has trees which are of value for timber and for cabinet work. Some of the trees have bark which produces an excellent kind of tannin, and this is exported for use in tanning leather.

The Gran Chaco is owned by Paraguay, Argentina and Bolivia.

Forced Landing?

Minneapolis—(AP)—Jean Margaret Swain, a University of Minnesota graduate, obtained an airplane pilot's license under the Civil Aeronautics authority program after inserting a note of realism that wasn't in the curriculum. Miss Swain's final test required that she make a forced landing. At 3,000 feet she was preparing for the stunt when the plane's motor stopped dead. She glided onto the landing field without crackup or injury.

Looney Bids for Pro Loop Record

Eagles' End Caught Eight of O'Brien's Passes Last Sunday

Rookie Don Looney, paired with his former Texas Christian University forward teammate, Davey O'Brien of the Philadelphia Eagles, has already tied one National Football league record at this early date and served notice that a new sensational forward passing combination has developed in the major league circuit. Looney caught eight of O'Brien's passes in the Green Bay game to tie the old mark made by Herschel Ramsey, Philadelphia.

Looney leads the pass-receivers in the first individual statistics compilation. Jimmy Johnston, Washington, has five catches; and Ed Justice, Washington, and Gaynell Tinsley, Cardinals, four each. One of Looney's receptions was good for a touchdown, which when paired with another he made on an intercepted pass, gave him 12 points to tie Carl Mulleneaux, Green Bay veteran end, for the scoring leadership.

The Philadelphia freshman end was one of Davey O'Brien's receivers at Texas Christian in 1938 when Davey was named the number one college gridman of the year. O'Brien and Looney arrived in the Philadelphia training camp together this season and from early indications will go a long way to rival the nationally famous Arnie Herber-Don Hutson forward passing combination at Green Bay.

Looney was the only rookie to take a place among the leaders in early games, but the passing of freshman Beryl Clark, Chicago Cardinals, who has 7 completions in 14 losses is worthy of mention. The foremost passers in early games were Sammy Baugh and Frank Filchock, Washington; Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell, Green Bay; O'Brien and Ace Parker, Brooklyn, in addition to Clark. The combined total of these leaders was 55 completions out of 103 tosses for an average of 53 per cent. O'Brien has the most completions and most yards, 18 for 225 yards. Baugh's 11 out of 14 completions gave him the best efficiency average—78 per cent. O'Brien, Parker and Billy Patterson, Pittsburgh, have each thrown two touchdown passes.

Isbell, Green Bay, is the leading ground gainer with 68 yards, followed by rookie Banks McFadden, Brooklyn, 61; Tuffy Leemans, New York, 54; and Boyd Brumbaugh, Pittsburgh, 52. Clarke Hinkle, Green Bay, with 2 successful placements in two attempts leads in field goals.
